EUROPE.

The French Corps Legislatif—Division in the Left Center—Press Prosecutions—The Italian Insurrection—The Pope and the Council.

PARIS, June 2.—A split occurred today in the Left Center of the Corps Legislatif. Before the commencement of today's sitting, fifteen members of that portion of the Chamber held a conference and adopted a resolution to vote against the Ministry whenever its action is not in accordance with their programme. The President and Secretary of the Left Center are reported to be included in the new party. The proprietor of La Marseillaise, though the journal is now suspended, has received an additional sentence of 2,000 francs fine and three months' imprisonment for articles published in the last number. The Emperor held a grand review of cavalry today at Longchamps. Immense numbers of people from the city and surrounding country witnessed the spectacle....The news from Italy is important. It is rumored that formidable republican demonstrations have been made at both ends of Italy. The force on the Swiss border seems to be acting in concert with the Neapolitan insurgents. It is said that twenty-five Greek brigands recently landed at Terra di Lavoro and joined the insurrectionists.

ROME, June 2.—The Pope declines, on any pretence whatever, to delay the deliberations of the Ecumenical Council. He even urges industry on the part of the Fathers, and has suggested that the daily meetings begin an hour earlier than before.

Spanish Policy Toward Cuban Insurgents—The Aspirants to the Throne—The Slave Bill—The English Captives.

MADRID, June 2.—Dispatches have been received at the Colonial Ministry from Captain-General DE RODAS, informing the Government that insurgent Generals in Cuba offer to surrender on condition that their lives and property be spared, and asking for instructions as to the course to pursue. The Government has replied by telegraph that it is their desire that rebel officers sincerely desiring to give up the contest and be reconciled to Spain, be dealt with generously. On Monday next the Cortes will commence to discuss the question of filling the throne, with the purpose of arriving at a final solution. The partisans of the Duke of MONTPENSIER are very zealous and active, and have great hopes of securing the nomination. The Republican journals are extremely bitter against them. They declare that the country is in danger when such a name is proposed in connection with the crown, and they urge unrelenting war against "the Frenchman," as they term the Duke. As the day for the debate approaches the agitation grows deeper. The adherents of ESPARTERO have issued a circular favoring his election to the throne. The Liberal journals of this city condemn the proposed law for the emancipation of the slaves in the Spanish colonies, because by its provisions the children of the present slaves are to remain serving their owners too long. A modification of the bill in this respect is almost unanimously called for. There are, as yet, no tidings of the Englishmen who were recently captured by the brigands near Gibraltar. The Government is making every effort to hunt down the culprits.

The Mordaunt Divorce Case—Fenian Emissaries—The Derby—Telegraph to Spain—Marine Disasters—Cholera in India.

LONDON, June 2.—The decision of the appeal of the plaintiff in the Mordaunt divorce case, today, was rendered by Lord PENZANCE and Justices KELLEY and KEATING. The Courts hold that, owing to the continued insanity of Lady MORDAUNT, she is in no condition to make legal reply, and therefore the proceedings for divorce can be carried no further....The alleged Fenian emissaries, WILSON and DAVITT, who were arrested last week, were brought up for examination today. A great crowd of spectators occupied the Court-room and its approaches, and manifested their sympathy for the prisoners in an unmistakable manner. Unusual precautions had been taken by the Police authorities, and no disturbance took place. Nothing of importance was elicited at the examination. Bail was offered for the prisoner, but was refused; and at the conclusion of the proceedings the men were remanded to jail....Among the distinguished persons who attended the Derby yesterday was the Premier, Mr. GLADSTONE. The Daily Telegraph this morning has some droll comments on the circumstance.....A concession has been granted for laying a telegraphic cable between some point on the English coast and the port of Corunna, Spain....The ship Omen, from a Cuban port, went ashore on the Isle of Man, and is a total wreck....A virulent criticism appears in the last number of Blackwood on DISRAELI and Lothair. The article puzzles the politicians. Many think that the Tories have taken this course to shelve him....Dispatches from India, received today, mention an alarming outbreak of cholera in Rewak, in the Bengal Presidency.

The Argentine Republic and Gen. Jordan—The Uruguay Assassination.

LISBON, June 2.—Still later dates have been received from Rio Janeiro. The news is in the main unimportant. The Argentine Republic had decided to recognize Gen. JORDAN. A force had been sent against his followers on account of the assassination of URQUIZA.

MONTREAL, June 2.—The first meeting of the Synod of the Presbyterian Church of Canada, in connection with the Church of Scotland, was held here yesterday. Rev. SOLOMON MILNE, of Smith's Falls, was elected Moderator....The troops are being rapidly withdrawn from the front.

An Extensive Fire Raging—Sir John A. Macdonald.

CUBA.

Execution of Oscar Cespedes—More Cubans Killed—Operations of the Spanish Troops.

HAVANA, June 2.—Official dispatches from Captain-General DE RODAS announce that OSCAR CESPEDES was executed at Puerto Principe on the 30th ult. Col. FAJARDO's column had killed fifteen and captured seven rebels, and brought in 180 who surrendered to receive pardon. Among the latter are members of the families of IGNACIO AGRAMONTE, ARGILAGO, GUERRA CHINORO, and other noted insurgents. Gen. AGRAMONTE's correspondence was captured in an abandoned camp at Vueltas-Abajeros. Señor RAFAEL ZOLDUVAR is among the killed. Col. MONTANER reports that the detachment under his command has killed twenty rebels, including the chieftains GATO MALA, ENRIQUE MORA and JOAQUIN GUZMAN. The troops under Col. AGUILAR, at Maraguan, furnished a list of thirty-five rebels killed, including LUIS VELA, a noted leader. They also captured thirty prisoners, sixty horses, and a large quantity of arms. In addition to this, seven rebels were shot at Guimaro. At present no less than nine columns of Spanish troops are operating in the insurrectionary district. Reports are in circulation of the landing of filibusters, some say at Puerto del Padre, others at Tunas. No reliable particulars have been received.

THE INDIANS.

War on Whites Declared in Dakota—Five Hundred Advancing on Fort Buford.

CHICAGO, June 2.—A communication received at military headquarters in this city, today, from Col. MORROW, who commands the military forces at Fort Buford, Dakota Territory, states that war upon the whites had been openly declared by the Indians in that vicinity, and they were undoubtedly preparing to make an attack upon Fort Buford in strong force. The Indian warriors thereabout, who are Sioux, number from 400 to 500, while Col. MORROW had but fifty men ready for service. Yet with even that disparity of numbers he felt confident he could successfully resist any attack which the Indians might make, and also protect his herds of stock, &c. He had sent out ten friendly Indians to reconnoiter, who met what was supposed to be the advance guard of the hostile band, and were driven back.

Interview Between the President and Spotted Tail at the White House—Red Cloud and Spotted Tail.

WASHINGTON, June 2.—At noon today Commissioner PARKER and Capt. POOLE, the agent in charge of the Brule-Sioux delegation here, accompanied SPOTTED TAIL and his three companions to the White House, where they met the President and Secretary BELKNAP in the Executive office, and, through Interpreter GREEN a "friendly talk" of nearly an hour's duration was engaged in. Secretary BOUTWELL was present when the Indians arrived, but did not remain long. The Attorney-General was also at the White House during a part of the ceremony, but the presence of these two gentlemen was not connected with the Indian council. That was held by the President, Secretary BELKNAP and Commissioner PARKER on the part of the Government. The red men expressed pleasure at meeting the President and other officials, and greeted their salutations with a shake of the hand and the Indian exclamation "How," when they were introduced. They were invited to express their views freely to the President and to the Secretary of War, whose official standing was made known, and in response SPOTTED TAIL, and others of the delegation, asserted substantially their desire to be at continual peace with the white people, and their anxiety for a full settlement of their business with the Government, reasserting that they are poor and have need of stock, cattle, &c. They were assured by the President that he was anxious to have them at peace with the whites, and the Government is anxious that SPOTTED TAIL, whose influence is great among his people, should use it to bring about lasting friendship between the Indians and the white people. The speeches were made in short sentences, and were expressed by the interpreter, the Indians seeming very well satisfied with what was said to them. RED CLOUD was not present. He is still engaged in the enjoyment of resting after weary travel. After leaving the Executive Mansion the Indians were taken to the Treasury Department, where they were conducted through the Bureau of Engraving and Printing, and the process of printing the national currency was exhibited and explained to them. They are being treated with marked consideration, and evidently appreciate highly the attentions shown them.

FURTHER PARTICULARS OF THE INTERVIEW.

During the interview, SPOTTED TAIL said to the President that he had kept faith with the Government, but the fidelity had not been reciprocated, and he hoped the white man would hereafter, at all times, treat the Indians as his brothers. The President explained that upon Congress depended all that was requisite for the Government to perform, and that an appropriation bill was already pending, and the money would be, after its passage, properly expended for the benefit of the Indians. This the Indians intimated would be truly acceptable, but, in addition to the benefits they hope to derive from it, they are very anxious that the white people be restrained from invading their reservation. Before leaving the Executive Mansion SPOTTED TAIL was presented by the President with a fine meerschaum pipe, the bowl of which represented the head of a horse, and a fine silver match-case. Mrs. GRANT added a box of smoking tobacco, all of which was received with expressions of gratitude.

RED CLOUD AND SPOTTED TAIL.

An incident of the day, which was prolific of some comment among circles interested in Indian matters, was the meeting of the Brule Chieftain SPOTTED TAIL and the Ogallalla Chieftain RED CLOUD in the hotel where both are quartered. The two have been intimately, owing to the killing of Big MOUTH, one of RED CLOUD'S warriors, last Fall, but upon coming face to face today they shook hands and talked together for some time, seemingly burying all unfriendly feelings in a common understanding to exert whatever influence each possessed with the white rulers in behalf of their respective Indian tribes.

RED CLOUD'S COUNCIL.

To-morrow, about noon, RED CLOUD and his delegation will hold council at the Indian Office with the Secretary of the Interior and the Commissioner. It is probable that interesting and significant speeches will be made. On Saturday Commissioner PARKER will take them to the Navy-yard and United States Arsenal, thereby giving them an insight to the resources and strength of the Government so far as guns and ammunition afford evidence of the fact.

SPOTTED TAIL IN THE TREASURY DEPARTMENT.

During the visit of the Spotted Tail delegation to the Treasury Department today, after they had passed through the printing division, a stroll was enjoyed through the various rooms of Gen. SPINNER's division, and the visitors were exceedingly interested in the manipulations of manicated currency by the lady clerks of that bureau, who, on their part, seemed equally interested in the appearance of the Indians. Large numbers of visitors have called on the delegations, but as a general thing they are met with stoical indifference by the "braves." The Indians conceive all they have to communicate until the time arrives when they are to state their views in the presence of the Government officials.

THE MASSACRE OF JEWS.

Action of the Executive of the United States—The American Consul at Bucharest.

WASHINGTON, June 2.—Leading Israelites of Louisville have, it appears from dispatches received here today, telegraphed to every city in the West to arouse their Representatives in Congress to do all they can with a view to prevent further massacre of Israelites in Roumania. Mr. S. WOLF, of this City, has received a number of other telegrams, including one from M. S. ISAACS, Secretary of the Jewish Board of Delegates of the United States, as follows:

"Ask the President to instruct the Minister at Constantinople to help the Roumanian Jews."

Also one from HENRY GREENBAUM, a leading banker of Chicago, namely:

"Please ask my personal friends in Congress to cooperate with you in respectfully to the President of other wise, that the persecution and butchery of our brethren in Roumania be stopped."

The President and various members of Congress have also received similar telegrams. Mr. WOLF, a prominent Israelite of Washington, has been actively engaged all day in Executive and legislative circles, and has assurance that such action as may be consistent with usage will be taken. He has addressed a letter in appeal to Senator SUMNER, as Chairman of the Committee on Foreign Relations, with a view to a declaration of legislative sympathy. He also called on the Secretary of State today, and presented the telegrams from various parts of the United States asking for the intercession of the United States in behalf of that people. In consequence of this, it has been determined to appoint ADOLPHE BUCHNER, who is an Israelite, Consul at Bucharest, Roumania.

THE PRESBYTERIANS.

The General Assembly in Philadelphia—Indian Teachers and Missionaries—The Chicago Theological Seminary.

PHILADELPHIA, June 2.—In the Presbyterian General Assembly, this morning, reports from several committees were presented, stating that the United States Government proposed to endow several Professorships in the Highland Presbyterian University, in case that institution will undertake the education of Indians, who shall act as teachers and missionaries among the Indian tribes. Resolutions accepting the offer were adopted. An overture presented by the Committee on the Polity of the Church constituting the Presbytery of East Florida was agreed to. The Committee on the Theological Seminary of the North-west, at Chicago, presented a majority report, which severely censured those members of the present Board of Directors of that institution, and directed them to resign. The majority report was adopted after a warm and long debate. The censures were afterward struck out. The final items of the finance report concerning the five-million fund were adopted. The final item was altered so as to make the time of collections in the month of January next as near as possible simultaneous, instead of fixing a day. The First Presbyterian Church in Chicago was fired upon as the place of meeting for the next General Assembly. Rev. Dr. G. L. PRENTISS and F. J. SKINNER, Jr., were nominated to the vacant Chicago Professorships.

AFTERNOON SESSION.

PHILADELPHIA, June 2.—The consideration of the report of the Board of Education was taken up and amended by adding resolutions on the subject of applicants for the ministry. The report as amended was adopted. The report of the Joint Committee on the Reconstruction of the Board of Education was adopted. The second order of the day, the consideration of the report of the Committee on Freedmen, was taken up and discussed. Pending action on the report the Assembly adjourned until 8 o'clock this evening, when Dr. BEATTY moved that the order of the day be suspended to take up and hear the report of the Committee to express the report of the Reconstruction Committee. The report was read and adopted. The report of the committee appointed to prepare an act to enable Synods to reorganize was read, and placed on the docket and made the first order for to-morrow. Synodical reports were presented, after which the Assembly adjourned till to-morrow morning.

NEW-HAMPSHIRE.

Message of Gov. Stearns to the Legislature—The State Debt—Railroad Interests.

CONCORD, N. H., June 2.—Gov. STEARNS, in his message to the Legislature today, reports the finances of the State in a sound and prosperous condition. Of the State debt, nearly $300,000 has been paid, leaving the balance of indebtedness a fraction less than $2,900,000. Under these favorable circumstances a further reduction of taxation is recommended. The Governor thinks the State Prison, under proper management, may be not only self supporting, but a source of revenue, and recommends that the appointment of the warden and other officers, and the control and supervision of the Prison be invested in a board of inspectors or directors, to serve without compensation, and to be chosen by the Legislature or appointed by the Governor or Council. The attention is called to the educational, agricultural and manufacturing interests of the State, and the survey of water power available for manufacturing is recommended. Judicious legislation, the Governor says, may do much to strengthen our agricultural, manufacturing and railroad interests in the relations of harmonious co-operation and mutual benefit which they should sustain to each other for the public good and the advancement of the State.

After the reading of the Message in the House today, Rev. DENNIS R. POWERS, of Bridge, was elected Chaplain, and an adjournment was taken to Friday morning.

The majority on the Gubernatorial vote was 2,610.

The Hartford and Erie Railroad—Aid Voted by the Massachusetts House of Representatives.

BOSTON, June 2.—The House this afternoon, by 16 majority, passed, with slight modifications, the new bill offered by Mr. GOODRICH, extending State aid to the Boston, Hartford and Erie Railroad. The important feature of the new bill is that it proposes that the State shall give up the Bardell bonds it now holds as collateral, to be used with an equal amount contributed by the other bondholders for the completion of the road to Fishkill, the State and others receiving instead an equal amount of the bonds of the second mortgage. The bill also provides for the reorganization of the Company to meet the approval of the Governor and Council; for satisfactory contracts to finish the road within the amounts already raised; for the settlement of all claims and attachments upon the property, with the interest accruing till July, 1872, by means of the second mortgage bonds, and for the necessary ratification and acceptance of the act.

The Collision Between the Troops and the Fenians—Explanation.

UTICA, June 2.—A special to the Morning Herald gives the following particulars of the firing on the Fenians by United States soldiers: "The 6 P. M. train from Potsdam has just arrived, bringing 200 Fenians and fifty United States troops. At Williamstown a collision occurred between the troops and Fenians. The latter had a difficulty at a hotel, but quiet was restored. After the train had gone a mile, however, the Fenians disconnected some of the cars, and the engine had to back up for the hind cars, and the troops were obliged to get out and force the Fenians on the train at the point of the bayonet. Shots were fired and some wounded, but none killed. On reaching here the troops took to jail some of the ringleaders. On the 3 P. M. train 125 Fenians came here from the North, many of whom left on the trains East and West.

BARON STEUBEN.

Germany and America—Speech of Ex-Gov. Seymour.

In his memorial address at the laying of the corner-stone of the monument to the memory of FREDERICK WILLIAM VON STEUBEN, at Rensen, on Wednesday, Ex-Gov. SEYMOUR said:

"Baron STEUBEN gave to our armies the discipline and military training which they lacked at the outset. Without these patriotism and valor alone would have been almost avail. In this work he was the right arm of WASHINGTON. The recorded opinions of the great soldier and statesman of the era of the Revolution; the action of Congress and the laws of different States tell of the high regard in which he was held. New-York granted him a township of 16,000 acres, which bears his name. It made him the owner of the hills and valleys which lie around us. It gave him the soil with which his dust now mingles, and upon which his countrymen are about to put up a suitable monument to his memory. In this act there is another sentiment which animates those of German birth or descent, which does not allude to them and to the buried chieftain by whose grave we now stand. They wish that his name and this monument should remind the world that their nationality has had much to do with the beginning, the progress of our common country. Living here among those of different language and lineage, they wish it should be felt that they are not reaping in this country fruits or blessings which their people did not help to produce, or that they have not the same hereditary rights which belong to other nationalities. While the English language prevails in our country, no one race can claim that a majority of the American people are of their blood.

From the first settlement on this continent by Europeans, the people of Germany have had much to do with shaping its civilization and laying the foundations of its greatness. The wars of the Spanish succession, of the confederated nations of Europe against the overwhelming power of France in the time of LOUIS XIV, was connected with the struggle on this continent against the attempts of the same great monarch to grasp the largest and fairest part of the territory which make up the present domain of these United States. The victories of MARLBOROUGH, were upon German soil by the help of German allies, held as directly upon the destinies of this country as they did upon the fortunes of Europe. But for the defeat of the French at Blenheim, Bancilos and Malplaquet, at this day the valley of the Mississippi might have been politically severed from the Atlantic sea-board. Nay, more; French customs, laws and language might have prevailed on this continent.

It was during the progress of this war that a large body of Germans from the Palatinates, who had been driven from their homes by the French armies, were sent to this country by Queen ANNE and placed within the limits of New-York. In truth, this, the greatest State of our Union, is based upon a population drawn from countries bordering upon the Rhine. These of Holland and German descent made up the majority of its population before the revolution. The Mohawk, amid whose tributaries we now meet, is a German river. Its valley was first settled and cleared by those who spoke the German tongue. From its borders and those of its continent, the Schoharie, they went forth to fight the battles of the French and Revolutionary wars. No other people upon our continent suffered so much in proportion to their numbers during the Revolutionary struggle. Exposed to all the horrors of Indian warfare, it is found, when peace was restored that there was not a home in the valley of the Mohawk which had not suffered from the torch of the enemy, or which did not mourn for the dead slain in battle or killed by the ruthless savage led by BRANT or others still more blood-thirsty.

The most carefully prepared and most formidable attempt to crush American independence was made by the British Government in the campaign directed by Gen. BURGOYNE. The world looked on and felt that the result would test our ability to uphold our cause. The victory at Saratoga settled the question, and blotted North British rule. It gained us the alliance of France and Spain. By the plan of the campaign, the disciplined armies of England were to march down the valley of the Upper Hudson. The ships-of-war were to push their way up the waters of the river above Red Point. The savage allies were to ravage the course of the Mohawk with the scrub and tomahawk. All of these forces were to meet at Albany, and the union of the State of New-York was thus to be confirmed by hacking up all intercourse between the northern and southern colonies. Thus divided, we should have been an easy prey to the united forces of Britain.

It was in dark hour, when the loss of Ticonderoga had cast a deep gloom over the patriotic cause, that the battle of Oriskany was fought in the valley beneath us. Disordered at first by the ambush of the enemy, our forces fought with a desperation which wrung out victory in the end, and forced the enemy to raise the siege at Fort Stanwix and withdraw its forces in confusion, and with heavy loss. Thus one part of the combined movement was defeated. The battle of Oriskany was the most bloody fought, and in proportion to the numbers engaged, was the most bloody and life-destroying of any contest during the Revolution. The men who struggled for our liberties were of German lineage. The orders given by the stern old warrior who directed the fight, despite his mortal wound, were issued in the German language. The war cries were shouted out in the German tongue, and the dying men uttered their last prayer in the words and accents which have so often gone up from the battle-fields of their Fatherland. It is well that the grave of the hero—whose memory we now honor—lies upon the heights which overlook the great valley settled by his countrymen, which was defended by their courage, and which is the home of the territory won by them for the whole American people.

It was in view of the fact at which I have glanced, that the Commissioners appointed by this State, to put up a monument over the grave of STEUBEN, have given over the work to his countrymen. It remains with them to show that they hold in due reverence the memory of the hero who won glory alike in the battles in his native land, as well as in those which were fought in the cause of American independence. It remains for them to show, by their liberal and earnest action, that they care for the highest purpose of patriotism—the nurture of the infancy and growth and greatness of American affairs, and to show that they mean, by the honors done by them to their representative man, to claim the right which belongs to all nationalities which have helped to build up American greatness and glory, from the foundation stone to the highest pinnacle.

Gen. SIGEL delivered an eloquent address in German, being introduced by Ex-Gov. SEYMOUR in the following terms: "I have told you of the deeds of a Revolutionary hero, whose memory America will always honor. I now have the pleasure of introducing to you one whose friendship I cherish, and whose deeds I admire, a soldier who has fought bravely on many battle-fields of a later war, a fellow-countryman of Baron STEUBEN, Major-Gen. FRANZ SIGEL."

CUBAN AFFAIRS.

Matters at Puerto Principe—Engagements, Surrenders and Prospects—News from the Cinco Villas.

From Our Own Correspondent.

HAVANA, Tuesday, May 24, 1870.

After an ominous silence of a week, we have of a sudden been flooded with a mass of war news, its very quantity as given by the Puerto Principe journal, and the cautious official dispatch, making its value extremely doubtful. Private letters change the official version considerably, and as the former are written by Cuban sympathizers and the latter by Spaniards, both being interested parties, it is extremely difficult to get at the exact truth. A close examination of both versions and the testimony of an eye-witness enables your correspondent to furnish as reliable an account as can be obtained. All accounts however, agree in the main fact, that the insurrection in the Camaguey district is no longer powerful, although sufficiently strong to hold out for a long time to come against the Spaniards, and that the principal families who, until the present, had cast their fortunes with the insurgents and suffered great hardships, have been compelled by general want and misery, and by the active movements and persecutions of the troops, to abandon their male relatives and seek comfort and shelter under the protection of the Spanish troops. The insurgents have their hands full in defending themselves from the attacks of the troops, and are not sufficiently strong to protect their families at the same time without exposing them to unnecessary and incessant danger. The Spaniards see the early closing of the rebellion in these surrenders, and they are partly right; but the surrender of armed insurgents is really very small in extent, and bears no proportion to the number of aged women and children who have taken this course. It appears that the insurgent leaders accompany their families close to the Spanish lines, and then return to the woods; but this proves also that the insurgents have no fear that their families will be treated with violence or insulted by the Spaniards. Hence we see that the charges of cruelty and of the assassination of women and children made by prominent Spanish and Cuban organs against their respective opponents are greatly exaggerated, and only written and invented to produce effect abroad and arouse sympathy for one side and hatred toward the other. I do not mean to say that either Spaniards or Cubans are guiltless of cruel and sanguinary acts, examples to the contrary are only too numerous; but the real truth has been magnified and distorted by partisans. The insurgents and their families who surrendered in the Camaguey are well treated and not molested by the Spaniards, but this does not apply to any prisoners whom they capture. In the field only does the black flag fly; if a prisoner's life is spared for the moment, it is only in order to find out something from him, and to execute him afterward at leisure, and at the same time afford the generous public a little diversion, vide the cases of GOICOURIA, of the AGUIROS, and of the seven men to be executed today at Puerto Principe. But I must recur to the operations effected in the Camaguey region, giving them without the usual extras, as they appear in the island journals, and limiting myself only to the gist of the matter. The column of Col. BERGEL, over 400 strong, returned to Puerto Principe on the 15th bringing sixty-five so-called presentados (voluntary surrendered persons, generally women and children.) BERGEL left Port Minas, on the railway line, on the 12th, arriving on the following day at the Saramaguaran plantation situated on the banks of a little stream bearing the same name, which had been transformed into a regular river by the recent rains. On the opposite shore the Cubans had thrown up a poor breastwork, from which they fired on the troops for a little while. A portion of BERGEL's command crossed a short distance below, and the opposing forces, numbering only about sixty, who had observed the maneuver, abandoned their position and allowed BERGEL to cross. One Spaniard and two Cubans were killed in this encounter. BERGEL continued his march, a tropical rain falling all the time, to Las Calabazas, where a slight skirmish took place, and three Cubans and two Spaniards were killed. Thence BERGEL marched to the Laguna and Rizaro plantations, the latter the property of the Cuban General FORERO. Here they found some sugar and salt, which was destroyed, with some parts of the machinery, to prevent the Cubans from using the engine. Four Cubans and one Spaniard were killed during this march, and a number of families, composing sixty-five persons, taken to Puerto Principe, the column being harassed until within a short distance of the city. On the 17th, BERGEL returned to Las Minas. The combined columns of Cols. CHINCHILLA, FAJARDO and MONTANA left Puerto Principe on the 12th, numbering about 1,100 men. The roads were almost impassible, and the troops could only move forward by super-human exertions. Five Cubans were killed on the first day, the combined columns arriving at Cirgo de Najara on the 14th, where they captured ten and killed three insurgents after a sharp but short engagement, the troops losing two killed. On the 15th, the columns of BERMETA and AGRAMONTE began to harass the troops, and but slight headway was made, the troops encamping on the Quemado, having killed that day a Quartermaster and three other officers of the Cuban forces. A short distance from the Quemado the insurgents under BERMEZA had hurriedly erected an entrenchment, and, as usual, when BERMEZA commands, the resistance was resolute and firm. The troops made four distinct attack on the breastworks, and were repulsed every time, when Col. CHINCHILLA, one of the bravest officers in the Spanish Army, a nephew of SERRANO, and only thirty-one years of age, placed himself at the head of his battalion and, with a shout, attacked the intrenchments. The soldiers did not heed the flying bullets, but followed their Colonel, and in less than five minutes the intrenchment had been taken, the enemy retreating quickly and the troops pursuing. But the attack had cost the Spaniards dear. Col. CHINCHILLA, falling severely wounded, other officers and many soldiers being wounded, and seventeen killed. A portion of the command made a reconnoissance on the following day, destroying some huts and provisions of the enemy, but without meeting any insurgents. The troops captured an American horse in the engagement on the 16th, said to be the charger of Gen. IGNACIO AGRAMONTE, and some articles belonging to BERMEZA. The Spanish column reached Puerto Principe on the afternoon of the 19th, bringing Col. CHINCHILLA and the rest of their wounded with them. Later telegrams, dated from Puerto Principe on the night of the 22d, announce that Col. FAJARDO's column had returned, having killed seventeen and captured six insurgents, and bringing 140 presentados, among them men of some importance, who had fought in the ranks of the insurgents, such as the families Guzman, Varona and Sanchez Recio. The night previous, fourteen persons presented themselves at the volunteer fort on the outskirts of Puerto Principe, consisting of Ex-Major-Gen. MANUEL ANTEIGA BORRERO and family, and FRANCISCO DE QUESADA, alias Pancho Iotabo, a brother of the ex-Commander-in-Chief. A correspondent of the Voz de Cuba adds that these persons report the insurgents flying in all directions, and that the most complete anarchy reigned among them.

THE CINCO VILLAS,

especially about Sancti Spiritus, are as disturbed as ever. The insurgents appear to go and come as they please, and, although the Spanish journals are pretty silent, enough is known to convince even the most credulous that the work of pacification has not made much headway in that region. QUASIMODO.

THE COLLECTORSHIP.

Action of the Republican General Committee—Vote of Confidence in the Administration of Gen. Grant and in the Collector.

The Republican General Committee met last evening, corner of Twenty-second-street and Broadway, Hon. JOHN COCHRANE in the chair. The Committee of Conference with the German organizations reported that the latter desired a closer intimacy with the General Committee. The Committee, therefore, recommended, in accordance with the request of the Germans, that a delegation of five be admitted to the General Committee, with all the privileges of members except the right to vote. Resolutions favoring this arrangement were offered and seconded. E. DELAFIELD SMITH moved that the words "except the right to vote" be stricken out. It was found that this amendment could not be carried without an amendment to the by-laws of the Committee, and on this ground it was opposed by DANIEL D. CONOVER, who said, without the amendment the Germans were getting all they requested, "sufficient to the day is the evil thereof."

J. SOLIS RITTERBAND opposed both the passage of the resolution and the acceptance of the report, on the ground that the Committee had acted outside their authority in making the report, and, even if they had authority, the report was informal, in that it was signed by but one member of the Committee. The whole subject was then referred to the Executive Committee.

RUFUS F. ANDREWS called attention to the fact that at a former meeting the Committee on hiring rooms was instructed by resolution to rent the Twenty-third-street hall, yet, notwithstanding such instructions, the Committee now found itself in its present close, inconvenient and ill-adapted room. IRA O. MILLER, on behalf of the Committee, explained that the cost of the Twenty-third-street Hall was $1,200; that it could not be rented for more than a year, and perhaps not for that period; that the present room was equal to it in size, ventilation and general accommodation, and $1,400 cheaper in rent; that the Committee had exercised its best judgment, and in the opinion of its members had done the very best thing under the circumstances. Moreover, that the Committee, acting under the power conferred on it, had concluded the hiring of this hall before the resolutions of instruction in reference to the Twenty-third-street hall had been passed by the General Committee. CHAS. H. TRUESDELL made a strong speech in opposition to the action of the Committee, and charged that two or three members had assumed to run the entire affairs of the General Committee. After a long and bitter discussion on the conduct of the special Committee, the whole subject was laid on the table.

JAMES B. COMMISKEY then offered the following preamble and resolutions:

Whereas, This Central Republican Committee of the City of New-York, in accepting the trust confided to it by the friends of Republican government has assumed important duties and incurred grave responsibilities in regard to all such measures which affect the general welfare of the country; therefore

Resolved, That the interests, the welfare and the honor of the American people are closely identified with the success of the government of the Republican Administration of the National Government, and that Gen. U. S. GRANT has already won in civil life new claims upon the thanks and gratitude of the American people.

Resolved, That the meaningful result of the financial measures recommended by President GRANT, during the first year of his service at the head of the Government, as shown in the steady reduction of the national debt, the maintenance of the honor and credit of the stability of the national securities, and the close approximation already reached to the resumption of the specie standard of values, is a triumph of judgment and fidelity which sheds lustre on the American name and character.

Resolved, That in active support of the policy and measures of the President and his Cabinet, no officer in charge of any subordinate department of the Government has been more zealous, efficient and faithful than the present Collector of the Port of New-York; and that this Committee sincerely trusts that the well-known confidence reposed by the President in that capable and popular officer may continue unimpaired.

DANIEL D. CONOVER moved that the resolutions be voted on separately, as he did not believe in one man coming in for a compliment on the shoulders of another.

CHARLES S. SPENCER also suggested that the yeas and nays be taken, for he believed the last resolution was the chief one.

HUGH GARDNER did not believe in any administration which required an indorsement at every meeting of the Committee. It was like a man who was constantly boasting of the virtue of his wife; he (Mr. GARDNER) was always of the opinion that such a man was in doubt. He did not know Mr. GRINNELL, but he could cheerfully state that the affairs of the Collectorship were wisely and efficiently administered. He believed GRANT had made some mistakes, but nevertheless his Administration had been such as to command the confidence of the party and people at large. When a man came up and presented such a resolution to the Committee, he must have some personal motive. Some gentlemen had been talking about jobs, but in this resolution he saw a veritable job. The matter of the removal or retention of the present Collector should be left entirely in the hands of the Administration, and he therefore moved that the resolution be laid on the table.

The motion was promptly seconded by about twenty members, but none of the seconding members having arisen in seconding the motion, as required by the rules, the Chair declared them irregular, and again opened the question to discussion. Mr. THOMPSON, the mover of the resolutions, spoke in their favor, and was followed by Hon. WM. E. DARLING in opposition. Mr. DARLING opposed them, he said, in the best interests of the Republican Party. Mr. GRINNELL, in the administration of his office, had recognized the claims of Republicans from Maine to Oregon, and out of about 400 appointments, but 25 were given to the City of New-York. Some of the National Committeemen of this General and Executive Committees, he charged with owing their appointments to Tammany Hall, and claimed that the Republican Party would never rise to its proper position until men were placed in office who understood the wants of the party, and would properly distribute the patronage vested by the work and life.

CHARLES S. SPENCER spoke in favor of the resolutions. He sustained the administration of Mr. GRINNELL, who, he contended, had always shown a willingness to recognize the claims of the Republicans of this City.

The resolutions complimentary to the Administration of President GRANT were unanimously adopted.

After some further discussion on the resolution complimentary to Mr. GRINNELL, the roll was called, and, out of sixty-nine votes, forty-four were in favor of the adoption of the resolution and twenty-one were opposed.

The following members voted in the affirmative: Michael Madigan, Matthew Stewart, Gilbert Lewis, John Dick, Philip H. Hedlich, James McLaren, Elphalet S. Hovey, Hen

Ex-Judge JOHN H. REAGAN, of Texas, says that the present laws of TEXAS are good, and the judges generally do their duty, but the juries are too lenient.

Pittsburg is about to raise money to enable a female champion to contest a race with some of America's crack boatmen. She is seventeen years old, and daily practices in a skiff on the Monongahela.

It may interest the Wilmington (N. C.) Star to learn that a man was fined $12 and costs, taxed at $8 30, in Concord, N. H., on Wednesday, just for trying to teach a boot-black to "know his place like other people" by whipping him.

A citizen of Charlestown, Mass., recently deceased, left $600 to be held in trust and the interest used in upgrading the aesthetics of that city to Boston. Boston thinks the will very "singular."

That poor man with his invalid wife in a wheelbarrow, and his two little children by his side, was in New London, Conn., on Tuesday, still on his way to his home. His is a long, long journey.

A Southern paper, which is evidently quite sound, remarks that the Republican Party is a living, active power, and unwilling to watch and wait, follows the leadings of its own bounding vitality in its passionate strength of the up-and-doing.

People who make notes or write love-letters, will be delighted with a bit of information which the Treasury Department gives, that violet ink fades, some records written with it and exposed to the light being now more blank paper.

The Mayor of Lynchburg, Va., is sick and confined to his bed, and it being impossible otherwise to obtain a quorum, a meeting of the City Council was held on Monday in his private apartment. Notwithstanding his inability to rise, he presided, and attended properly to all business brought before the body.

The Sacramento Union says that the unfavorable weather of the last month has greatly diminished the chances of an average grain crop on all the uplands and high valleys throughout California, outside of the influences of the ocean fogs, and it estimates that the crop will be 5,000,000 bushels short of the average.

The Toledo (Ohio) Commercial reports that the friends of the different railroad projects looking to Toledo from the north, are by no means disheartened by the decision on the Michigan Aid law, but are already actively at work arranging for means to supply the losses thus sustained.

The Portland, (Me.,) Press urges that elections in that State be made biennial. Under the present system, it says, the best part of a year is given to caucuses, conventions, campaigns and elections, and more or less excitement, confusion, pulling and hauling are the natural and inevitable consequence.

Hon. THOMAS A. HENDRICKS made a speech at a Democratic meeting in Vincennes, Ind., on Saturday. He seemed to be very much afraid that the youthful negroes will be admitted to the public schools and that the children of the wealthy whites will thus be driven out and take refuge in private schools, and that thus from childhood up the line will be drawn in society between the children of the rich on the one hand and of the poor and the negroes on the other.

After a verdict had been rendered in a late trial in Austin County, Texas, the Judge addressed the jury in this way: "By your verdict you have said the accused is guilty of no crime. Your verdict being contrary to law, contrary to the evidence, and contrary to the charge of the Court, the Court disapproves of your action in the strongest possible manner. It is by such verdicts as this upon the part of petit jurors, that Texas has been brought into disrepute among the other States of this Union."

The Hamilton (Ont.) Times, too, admits that the people of Canada have been very much mistaken in asserting, as they have recently, that during the rebellion, United States vessels, laden with men and munitions of war, were allowed to pass through the Canadian canals, and that United States troops were allowed to pass over the railways without let or hindrance. No such vessels passed through the canals, and no soldiers were transported over the railways in their organized capacity, or bearing arms.

A Pennsylvania young man, who wandered off on the eve of his marriage, has returned home, and says that he "was seized with a sort of unconsciousness, but at last a weight seemed to lift off his head, and having come to himself, he returned home." And so the marriage feast has again been made ready, but the interesting question arises whether, if the young woman in the case had married the man when he was beside himself, she would have made herself liable to a prosecution for bigamy.

The editor of the Charleston (S. C.) Courier says that he was present in Fort Sumter, on the 8th of September, 1862, when Lieuts. WILLIAMS (late of the Oneida) and PEGRAM were captured, and that they were placed under no restraint, except to the limits of the fort, while there; and while in custody in Charleston, they were not manacled, but were treated with humanity and all the courtesy accorded to prisoners by the most civilized nations, being permitted to receive visitors, and having the use of books and writing materials.

A New-York correspondent, whose letters are a tri-weekly rehash of slanders upon New-York City, its customs and its citizens, in a recent letter says: "It is the rarest thing in the world for a New-York lady to return the slightest acknowledgment for a seat tendered to her in a street-car. She takes the seat as if it was her right, and gives the gentleman a withering look for his impertinence in being in it when she entered." If the writer of such stuff as this has ever had opportunity to know anything about those "withering looks," the "impertinence" which caused them probably did not lie in his being in a seat when the lady entered.

Hon. JACOB BRINKERHOFF, of the Supreme Court of Ohio, declines to be a candidate for re-election, giving as a reason that he finds "by a saddening experience that the salary is a compensation wholly inadequate for the no inconsiderable personal expenses, the heavy responsibility, the exhausting, never-ending and still-beginning labor, and the deprivation of the comforts and associations of home, which the position necessarily involves." A Cleveland paper says that his most noted act, perhaps, was his opinion on the Oberlin-Wellington negro rescue cases, in which, with Judge SUTLIFF, he held that the Fugitive Slave law was unconstitutional. A majority of the Court ruled otherwise, but the people overruled the Court.

The Shepherd will case, which has been argued for twelve long days before the Supreme Court of Louisiana, went to the Court on Friday last, and the decision will be rendered in November. The New-Orleans Times says that the whole controversy turns upon the simple question whether a solemn orthographic will, making a full and complete distribution of the testator's estate, which has been regularly probated and executed, shall be thirty years afterward set aside and avoided, by the expressions of the desire of the testator in regard to certain gifts or provisions conveyed in a confidential letter by the testator to the universal legatee, a letter written at the same time with the execution of the will, but which letter has never been produced, and its contents are only gathered from admissions contained in a family correspondence and the remembrance of third parties.

The Need of Popular Music.

From the New-York Star, June 2.

It is strange that none of our usually enterprising musical caterers recognize the need of cheap and popular music in this City. At times THEODORE THOMAS, or some other musical magnate, gives a concert at Steinway's, or at the Academy, when a few critics delight in the rendition of the works of MOZART, BEETHOVEN, and others of the old masters. To the few this is a treat; to the many it is a bore. We have frequently noticed some good-natured man enter the hall with his smiling wife, and perhaps two children. For the first quarter of an hour the woman looks sorely puzzled, and somewhat profound; in half an hour the woman is sleepy, and the man appears, after mature deliberation, to have given the matter up. The children are of course; that sleepy time bodies in all kinds of contorted positions. Music does not suit them. "The Genius" sends them to sleep. "Shoo Fly" would have rendered sleep an impossibility. The same holds good in vocal entertainments. PATTI runs through the entire vocal gamut, makes the good wonderful noises, and gives satisfaction, but let her sing "Coming Through the Rye," or something which the bulk of the audience can comprehend, and she "brings down the house." Why is it, then, our managers will not give us popular music? Why cannot we have concerts similar to those given at Exeter Hall, and the Albany, and in the dozen other places of which London boasts? At any of these places the best performances in the country can be heard for one shilling. We are certain such entertainments here would succeed financially. Manager SUMNER is giving us popular music in the park during the day, and they succeed. Now, the park opposite Tammany Hall, where neither liquor nor tobacco can be indulged in?

REFORMED PROTESTANT CHURCH.

The National Synod at Newark, N. J.—Second Day's Session.

The second day's session of the National Synod of the Reformed Protestant Church of America, convened in the North Reformed Church, in Newark, at 10 o'clock yesterday morning. The President, Rev. A. G. VERMILYE, of Utica, N. Y., occupied the chair, with Rev. E. W. SPAULDING, of Hillsville, N. Y., as Adviser, and Rev. Mr. DIMOCKER as Clerk. Rev. J. L. LEE, the Secretary of the Board of Education, presented the annual report of the Board. Sixty-seven students had been under the care of the Board; eight applications had been made since April 30. The Board had also rendered assistance to eleven churches in the support of pastors. A beginning had also been made for a new educational institute at Amelia Court-house, Va. At this place Dr. VAN BOALTE, the pioneer of a large colony of Hollanders, had taken the initiatory steps for the formation of an institution to be called the Amelia Institute, which is to be under the direction of the Classis of Raritan.

The Classis of New-Brunswick presented a request for a Synodical interpretation of the rule referring to regular preaching on the Heidelberg Catechism.

Rev. J. S. BOGERT, corresponding delegate of the Canada Presbyterian Synod, and Rev. Adams DELAMATER, delegate of the General Assembly of the Presbyterian Church, reported their attendance, and were received.

The Financial Secretary of the Committee on Theological Seminary, reported $134,500 raised for the Seminary, from Feb. 8, 1869, to May 1, 1870. Of this sum, $37,500 had been expended for the library, salaries of the Professors of Didactic and Polemic Theology, purchase of residence for a Professor, and improvement of buildings.

The right of clergymen without churches to vote in the classes was the subject of a lengthy discussion. The case of Rev. Mr. SIMPSON, formerly Assistant of Grace Church, Brooklyn, whose case was one involved in this question, was referred to a committee. The Committee's report was favorable to the right of the clergyman to a vote, even though he was without a parish, but the Synod refused to receive the report, and gave a contrary decision.

At the afternoon session, the Holy Communion was celebrated. No evening session was held.

Among the members, Judge BARNARD's decision in the Laing will case was freely discussed, and the general determination seemed to be to contest the case by an appeal.

Graves of Union Soldiers.

The Chief Quartermaster of the Department of the East gives notice that information will be gladly received by him relating to the graves of Union officers and soldiers in this district, with a view of compiling a record of the interments in each of the cemeteries in the country. The information should be sent to WM. T. HOWKIN, Brevet Major and A. Q. M. U. S. A., Chief Quartermaster, District Department of the East, New-York City.

Chamber of Commerce—New Members—Harbor Improvements.

At the regular meeting of the Chamber of Commerce yesterday afternoon, the Executive Committee, through Mr. GRINNITH, reported the names of Messrs. F. OPDYKE, PARKER and PLINY FREEMAN as candidates for admission to the Chamber. Mr. ROYAL PHELPS spoke in opposition to the practice of admitting men who were not bankers or merchants.

After some discussion, Mr. OPDYKE was unanimously elected, and the other two names were laid on the table.

The Executive Committee recommended that the resolution on intercoastal cables (presented at a previous meeting) be referred to Committee No. 5.

A communication from the Boston Board of Trade was referred to the proper standing Committee.

A communication from Mr. BLUNT was read, who wanted the Chamber to take active measures to secure the necessary harbor improvements.

Without taking action on Mr. BLUNT's communication, the Chamber adjourned.

A POLICEMAN STABBED.

Savage Onslaught by a Notorious Ruffian—Circumstances of the Affair—Arrests.

Yesterday morning a savage and cowardly attack was made by a notorious desperado upon a patrolman who at the time was engaged in an onerous special duty. For many months the Florence Saloon, in the basement at the southwest corner of Broadway and Houston-street, of which GEORGE W. MITCHELL, recently elected an Alderman on the Tammany ticket, was the proprietor, was the resort of the most desperate thieves and cut-throats in the City, who made the saloon a disgrace and terror to the vicinity by their frequent brawls. But some days ago the saloon was sold out to Ex-Coroner WILDEY, who, having a natural sympathy with those who expelled these lawless characters from the place. They, however, still congregated on the sidewalk in the vicinity, and Superintendent JOURDAN gave orders for men to be posted there for the special duty of driving them away. The thieves, reluctant to leave the haunt to which they were so long accustomed, stoutly resisted, and have not been finally expelled without the shedding of blood.

Yesterday morning Patrolman DANIEL W. DUCKMAN, of the Eighth Precinct, was upon the special duty named, and found JIM CASEY and PAT DUFFEY, two notorious characters, in Houston-street, near Broadway, slightly intoxicated, and in obedience to his instructions ordered them to leave. CASEY returned a defiant answer and ascended the steps of No. 12 West Houston-street. DUCKMAN followed with the intention of escorting the ruffian off the premises. CASEY suddenly turned and sprang upon the officer, having in his hand an ordinary pocket-knife, which he plunged with savage determination into the neck of DUCKMAN, immediately under the right ear, and again in the right shoulder. Officer TYLER, of the Broadway squad, seeing the attack, ran to the assistance of DUCKMAN and cut him in the upper right wrist, causing a severe flesh-wound, but he was able to seize DUFFEY with his left hand and thus secured the outlaw. Capt. MILLS, of the Broadway squad, also witnessing the affray from a distance, ran up with all possible speed and was in time to assist TYLER in the arrest of the prisoner on the scene. The prisoners were taken to Police Head-quarters, where they were locked up and to which place DUCKMAN was also conveyed by Capt. MCDERMOTT, and his wounds dressed by Dr. MORRIS, the City Sanitary Inspector, who found that the knife had just missed the carotid artery and entered the muscular nerve; Beyond causing a temporary loss of voice and prostration from profuse bleeding, the wound is not serious. The wounded man was able to proceed in a coach before Justice HOGAN, and make a complaint against the prisoner, who had been taken before that Magistrate, and DUFFEY was committed for felonious assault, in default of $2,000 bail in each case. CASEY was also committed on a charge of intoxication and disorderly conduct. The accused, DUFFEY, is a well-known Democratic politician, and at the late election was elected an Inspector of Elections in the Eighth Ward.

The German Brewers' Congress.

The German lager-beer brewers of this country will hold their tenth annual Convention, or "Congress," as they call it, at Davenport, Iowa, from the 7th to the 10th inst. By the officers of the general Brewers' Association of this country, all of this City, viz., Messrs. HENRY CLAUSEN, Jr., President, RICHARD KATZENMAYER, Secretary, FREDERICK SCHAEFER, Treasurer, a circular, dated New-York, April 20, 1870, has been sent to the several local or district associations of the German brewers of the different parts of the country, inviting them to send their delegates to the Convention. As stated in the programme, contained in the circular, the following will be the main subjects of discussion at the Convention:

1. Report about the present state of internal revenue legislation, with regard to the brewers' business.

2. "Dangers to the business by the influences of temperance fanatics and political swindlers."

3. Adoption of the Constitution of the General Brewers' Association of the United States.

4. Plan for the establishment of a brewers' school, in which theoretical and practical instruction in lager-beer brewing is to be given.

5. New special motions.

The District Brewers' Association of this City and neighborhood, Mr. HENRY CLAUSEN, Jr., President, and Mr. RICHARD KATZENMAYER, Secretary, numbers about seventy members, representing firms of this City, Williamsburg, Morrisania and Staten Island. As delegates of this Association to the Convention at Davenport, have been appointed Messrs. JOHN KESSE, SCHMID, (of the firm of BERNHEIMER & SCHMID,) MICHAEL KUNTZ, of this City, and GEORGE BECHTEL, of Staten Island. A report made at the last year's Convention showed that the capital invested in lager-beer brewing in this country amounted then to about $108,000,000.

Police Matters—Important Removals and Appointments.

It has been generally understood that, prior to the passage of the present charter in the Legislature, an understanding was arrived at as to an equitable division of the patronage of the Police Department between the Democrats and Republicans, which was first observed in the appointment of the old Commissioners, there being two from each party. It was also understood that the Board of Police Surgeons was to be reconstructed, and this part of the programme was partially carried out yesterday by the following removals: Surgeons Everett H. Kimbark, Alexander B. Mott, Alfred E. M. Purdy, Robert P. Gibson and William Sutton. Dr. Kierstead having been previously removed, there were six vacancies, and these were filled by the following appointments: Dr. A. Ransom, Dr. John Seville, Alfred N. Beach, Daniel D. W. Harrington, Christopher Prince and Samuel H. Orton. These physicians are all Democrats, named by Commissioners BOSWORTH and BRENNAN, who, being entitled to two more members of the Board of Surgeons to make up their half, named PRESSNER and PATRICK MCGOWAN, of the old Board, who were also appointed. Commissioners MANNERS and SMITH have as yet taken no action as to the reconstruction of their half of the Board, so that eight of the old surgeons still claim a precarious hold upon official life.

The Board of Police also appointed the following Acting Sergeants to be Sergeants: RICHARD WALSH, Twenty-fourth Precinct, and CHARLES SNYDER, Twenty-eighth Precinct.

Italian Sailors Arrested for Mutiny.

A Forger Arrested.

SAMUEL CLARK, aged thirty, who describes himself as a provision dealer doing business in this City, was committed yesterday afternoon by Justice HOGAN, at the Tombs, on the complaint of HENRY N. BERNETT, of No. 56 Wall-street, who testified that on May 20 CLARK went into the office of the Royal Insurance Company and tendered in payment of a premium a check for $95, purporting to be drawn on the Shoe and Leather National Bank and signed by D. MILLIKEN & SON in favor of the Company. Believing the check to be genuine, it was accepted, and a receipt given for the amount. FREDERICK MILLIKEN, of No. 189 Water-street, having proved the check to be a forgery, CLARK admitted that he wrote it, and was held in $2,000 bail to answer.

THOMAS GORDON was brought up at the Jefferson Market Police Court yesterday, before Judge SHANDLEY, charged with robbing EDWIN L. CHAPIN, of No. 111 West Forty-fourth-street, of a pocket-book containing certificates for shares in the Flint River Mining Company worth $100. It appeared that while passing through Broadway on Wednesday afternoon, the prisoner suddenly seized him and snatched a pocket-book from his hand containing the certificates stated. He was remanded for further examination.

Opening of the Hudson County, New-Jersey, Hospital.

The formal opening of the Hudson County Hospital, on Magnolia-avenue, Jersey City, took place yesterday afternoon. The institution stands on a beautiful eminence in the late Hudson City, and in the midst of the most inviting surroundings. The grounds attached comprise thirty-two lots, most artistically apportioned into gravel-walks and flower-beds. The building was formerly known as the old Tonnelle Mansion, and is built about forty years. It is fifty feet square, substantially built of stone, and from the alterations and improvements recently made, seems happily adapted to its new purpose. As early as 1861 the project was initiated, but with the advent of the war the maturing of the movement was allowed to lie in abeyance till 1868, when, through the influence of Dr. QUINBY and others, the undertaking was revived by the purchase of the mansion and grounds from [illegible]. About $[illegible] have since been expended in improvements, so that for general comfort and convenience, it is especially well equipped for the reception of sick. The management is vested in a board of twenty trustees, of whom Dr. OTTO HEILION is President, and Rev. LOUIS H. DUBOIS, Chaplain of the Executive Committee. The charter of the institution authorizes the admission of indigent sick, also under certain circumstances, as well as those who can pay. The admission of paupers, however, is discretionary with the Board of Regents, and at present no provision has been made for their reception. From fifty to seventy-five paying patients can now be admitted. The charges for board, as will be rendered and other attendance, vary, according to the patient's choice of location in the Hospital, from $7 to $25 a week. A medical corps of four physicians and four surgeons has been secured, and all officers will discharge their duties gratuitously, except the Superintendent, H. M. LOUNSBERY, who will receive a yearly stipend of $1,500. At the public opening, yesterday, upward of 300 prominent citizens were present. The exercises consisted of prayer by Rev. R. C. TAYLOR, D. D., the opening address by the President, J. M. CORNELISON, M. D., and the reading of the business report by Rev. W. V. V. SLAMM, D. D. Mr. J. W. SCUDDER then delivered an address, and the benediction was pronounced by Rev. SAMUEL B. DODD.

CRICKET.

St. George vs. Philadelphia.

The match between these clubs which was commenced on Wednesday, at Hudson City, terminated yesterday in a victory for the St. George eleven, by a score of 52 to 36. The result of the first day's play was in favor of the Philadelphians, they scoring 155 on their first innings to the St. George's 109. Yesterday at 11 A. M. St. George went to the bat on their second innings, and by some very fine play ran up a score of 128, of which B. B. COOPER contributed 44 in All England Eleven style; NORLEY scored 27 handsomely, and GRAHAM batted in his old style for 22. On the other side the two "big guns" of the Philadelphia party, Messrs. PEARSON and CLAY, were disposed of for a small total. PEARSON being handsomely run out by Mr. COOPER for 0, and CLAY bowled for 6. BARCLAY made a fine stand for 26, and WRIGLEY hit in for 16, but the others failed to score double figures. Both sides were minus the services of one player, West not being on hand for Philadelphia, nor HATFIELD for St. George. The bowling of St. George yesterday was excellent, and the fielding very good. The Philadelphians, also, did both creditably. We give the score of the last day's play below:

The Swiss Extradition Case.

Commissioner WHITE heard a motion yesterday in the case of FRANCOIS FERRY, whose extradition is applied for by the Consul of the Swiss Confederation, on a charge of forgery, for the dismissal of the proceedings against the accused, on the ground, as contended by the latter's counsel, Mr. COUDERT, that the warrant under which the prisoner was arrested was defective, in not stating that it was issued by a Commissioner having jurisdiction of the offense charged, and also on the ground that the alleged forgery only amounted to a misdemeanor, not a felony, and could not, therefore, be made an extraditable case. Decision was reserved by the Commissioner until today.

LAW REPORTS.

SUPREME COURT—CHAMBERS.—JUNE 2.

Before Judge Cardozo.

THE PHENIX RUBBER COMPANY—A LARGE AMOUNT INVOLVED.

Cheever et. al. vs. Ackerman et. al.—This action, which is one of some interest, was before Judge CARDOZO today on a motion for a provisional Receiver. It appears that in July, 1866, the Phenix Rubber Company was formed in Connecticut with a capital of $100,000, divided into 4,000 shares, of which the plaintiff, Cheever, took 1,000, and the defendant, Warren Ackerman, 2,000 shares. They then commenced the manufacture of India Rubber and other goods of that nature, in pursuance of a license of the Union India Rubber Company—the parent factory of the latter being at Naugatuck, Conn. The division of profits as agreed upon was in the proportion of 100 to the Union to 100 to the Phenix Company. Warren Ackerman & Co. were the sole agents for selling the goods, and were to have 10 per cent. for their services and one-half per cent. This arrangement was made in the early days of the late rebellion, and goods were sold by Ackerman & Co. to the United States Government at the enormous profit of about $4,000,000—the profits to the Company being about $800,000, after deducting Ackerman's commissions. On the basis stated, the defendants admit that about $170,000 are currently due to Mr. Cheever. The latter however claims that he is entitled to a portion of the commissions.

The defendants say that quite recently, in looking over the books of the Company, they have discovered mistakes which damage the Union Company to the amount of nearly $[illegible], and that these sums ought to be deducted from the profits of the Phenix Company. Last September an action was commenced by the plaintiff in a Connecticut Court, for the purpose of obtaining a decree winding up the affairs of the Phenix Company, and a Receiver was appointed. Hence this motion. The plaintiff, on the Company, have moved to dismiss this action.

After the argument of the motion, the Court said that the affairs of the Connecticut Court appeared to be in a very tangled state, and that the Receiver had been appointed without notice to the defendants. The motion must be granted.

For plaintiff, Messrs. Stoughton & Curtis; for defendants, Mr. Wm. M. Evarts and Mr. T. G. Shearman.

COMMON PLEAS—TRIAL TERM—PART I.—JUNE 2.

Before Judge Van Brunt and a Jury.

THE PRICES OF DIAMONDS—A SUMS ALLEGED TO HAVE BEEN MADE BY A BUSHEAD BEE ARIM.

John O'Gorman vs. Henry Kamak.—This action, which has been on trial during the past two weeks, and already noticed in the TIMES, was today brought to a close by a verdict for plaintiff. The plaintiff was the owner in fee of the house and lot No. 305 Madison-street, in this City, and charges that in the year last the defendant, who was his tenant, did set a dangerous gas pipe within the premises, and that the house and lot became and was in consequence of the foregoing defendant's tenant, a man named White, with whom plaintiff boarded, to supply him (plaintiff) with liquor. The defendant, in his answer, admits the execution of the lease, and the fact of the gas pipe, but denies the allegations of scienter, and that White did so supply plaintiff with liquor, the gas being shut off at the time of November, 1867, the date of a deed in fee given by defendant to plaintiff, purporting to be a deed of the property from plaintiff to defendant (some months before the date of the gas pipe) which was now brought to set aside this alleged conveyance. Plaintiff testified on his part that he had no recollection of executing any deed, that the signature was not his, that he never had any, and that, so far as he knew, he never received any consideration from the defendant. Witnesses were also produced on the part of plaintiff showing that about the time of the gas pipe, defendant was in the habit of supply liquor to O'Gorman, and if O'Gorman died it would be no loss to him. (White is dead.) Evidence was also that indulged very freely, and was guilty of many amusing acts, the drinking thus not to be in a perfectly sound state of mind.

On the part of defendant it was proved that on the day when the deed was said to have been signed, O'Gorman and Kamak came by appointment to the office of Philip Levy, an attorney in Tryon-row, (who previously had made a search of the title of premises of Kamak,) and there had executed the deed. Several witnesses testified to O'Gorman's having signed the deed there, and the attorney testified to having taken his acknowledgment of it. Philip Levy, the attorney, and the defendant, Kamak, also testified to the payment of $6,500 in money, and the balance, $2,000, by the purchase money, there being a mortgage of $4,000 already on the property. It was further proved that on January, 1868, both Kamak and Roth, with their wives, executed a deed for the entire property to Philip Levy, in consideration of $6,000. The plaintiff, O'Gorman went before a notary public named Solomon, and reacknowledged the deed originally held by Kamak. On the question of supplying liquor to O'Gorman, by direction of Kamak, the testimony was in direct conflict. On the question of a reacknowledgment, the testimony was also conflicting, O'Gorman testifying that no deed was produced at the time of his alleged reacknowledgment. It was proved also that the day before the execution of the alleged deed, O'Gorman made application to be admitted to the City Hospital, but was refused because Kamak refused to advance the fees for the admission. The plaintiff, O'Gorman, the defendant claimed, was bitterness and not facetious. The jury was empanelled up on the part of defendant by Mr. Beach, and by Mr. Byrne for plaintiff. Judge VAN BRUNT then charged the jury, instructing, that if they found the facts and minds in the negative, they would govern all the defense. The jury found for the plaintiff, the plaintiff excepted and acknowledged the reconveyance deed to Kamak; and upon whether he reacknowledged that deed on the enlargement sale to Hamm; upon the question of scienter, the jury gave the negative, thus making it unnecessary for them to pass upon the statutory or common law rule, the life's mind at the time of the alleged conveyance, and finally upon the validity of the title of the purchaser and all parties claiming under him. The Court reserved the formal judgment.

SUPREME COURT—SPECIAL TERM—JUNE 2.

By Judge McCunn.

Bernheimer vs. Hagan; motion granted with $10 costs.

Townsend vs. Merchants' Insur

anthracite, 14,000 tons of semi-anthracite, and 44,000 tons of bituminous. On the lines of the Reading Railroad and, for city trade, across the Delaware, shipments from Port Richmond are confined to Anthracite and Lehigh Valley coals almost exclusively. Chestnut red ash is selling at $4 50, and all the other sizes at $4 25; an advance of 10 cents per ton all round. Schuylkill is quoted the same as last week. Freight changes are sustained, though scarcely little is doing. Two dollars are the current rates to Boston and like distances North, $1 10 to Washington, and $1 00 to from Baltimore. In the present situation and future prospects of the trade, it is scarcely possible that coal prices can be maintained."

A division of the French "Left Center" has adopted a resolution to vote against the Ministry whenever its action is not in accordance with their programme. An additional penalty of fine and imprisonment has been imposed on the proprietor of La Marseillaise for articles in the last number, although the paper is now suspended. A review of cavalry was held at Longchamps by the Emperor yesterday....The proposed law to emancipate the slaves in the Spanish Colonies meets with opposition from the Liberal journals of Madrid because the children of present slaves remain too long in servitude. The English captives of the brigands have not yet been heard from, although the Spanish Government is making every effort to hunt down the robbers. In reply to a dispatch from DE ROMAS as to the treatment of Cuban leaders who offer to lay down their arms on condition of the safety of their lives and property, the Colonial Minister directs him to treat all such persons seriously....A Parish dispatch has rumors of Republican demonstrations in both extremities of Italy, and that the force on the Swiss frontier seems to be acting in concert with the Neapolitan insurgents....The Pope declines to delay the deliberations of the Council, on any pretense whatever, and has suggested the opening of the daily sessions an hour earlier....The Court before which the appeal in the Mordaunt divorce case was taken, has decided that the proceedings for a divorce must go no further, Lady MORDAUNT being in no condition to reply, owing to continued insanity....The alleged Fenian emissaries, WILSON and DAVITT, were examined yesterday in London, and were remanded to jail. The Court-room was crowded by a sympathizing audience, and unusual precautions to keep order were deemed necessary. ....The ship Omeo, from a Cuban port, is a total wreck on the Isle of Man.

CONGRESS.

In the Senate, yesterday, a bill was introduced to encourage the construction of the "International Pacific Railroad," which contemplates the erection of a bridge across the Rio Grande. At the close of the morning hour the franking bill came up as unfinished business, but a general indisposition to consider the subject was manifest, and it was laid aside. A resolution of inquiry as to the propriety of making the mission to Japan a first-class one was adopted. The Indian Appropriation bill was then taken, and Mr. MORRILL, of Maine, made a statement showing the cost of the civil and military service on the frontier. Mr. STEWART, of Nevada, urged severe measures as necessary to teach the Indians they were not sovereign over the territory they occupied. An Executive Session put an end to further debate until after the recess, when the consideration of the bill was resumed. The amendments of the Committee were all adopted. An amendment to prohibit the deduction of the amount of claims for Indian depredations from money appropriated to pay annuities, and one providing for the continuance of the Indian Commission as long as the appropriation for their expenses lasts, were agreed to, and at 10 o'clock the Senate adjourned.

The House was engaged mainly with the income tax clause of the Tax bill. The debate was long, and somewhat exciting. Several important amendments were offered, and an agreement made that the vote should be taken today. The most important of the amendments are: By Mr. JUDD, to confine the tax to invested capital, and exclude profits and incomes; and by Mr. MORGAN, to fix a tax of five per cent. on incomes derived from bonds, notes, mortgages and other securities between $1,000 and $10,000, seven per cent. between $10,000 and $20,000, and eight over $20,000. During the morning hour a bill regulating the compensation in cases of contested elections was discussed. It provides that mileage and compensation shall be paid only to the person to whom the seat is finally accorded, and that the person against whom decision is made shall receive only the amount actually and necessarily expended in prosecuting or defending his case. A petition from New-York brewers was presented for the repeal of the law classifying brewers of malt liquors as dealers in spirituous liquors. The House adjourned at 4:10.

In the Presbyterian General Assembly at Philadelphia, yesterday, reports were submitted which stated that the United States Government had proposed to endow several Free ecclesiaps in the Highland Presbyterian University if that institution would undertake to educate Indians to teach and act as missionaries among the Indian tribes. The offer was accepted. A majority report from the Committee on the Theological Seminary at Chicago, consuring three of the Board of Directors of that institution and directing them to resign, was adopted. The next General Assembly will meet in the First Presbyterian Church in Chicago.

The reports of persecutions of the Jews in Roumania having been brought to the attention of the Secretary of State, the appointment of an Israelite as United States Consul at Bucharest has been received upon.

The members of the Brule-Sioux Indian delegation in Washington, at the head of which is SPOTTED TAIL, were admitted to an interview with the President, yesterday, in which friendly expressions were uttered on both sides. The Indians said they were poor and needed stock, cattle, &c. The President told the Government is anxious that SPOTTED TAIL, whose influence with his people is acknowledged, should use it to bring about a lasting peace between the Indians and the white people. RED CLOUD is still resting after the fatigue of his journey.

The health of the Canadian Premier was reported to be better yesterday morning.

Forty cases of relapsing fever were removed this week from Bedford-street, Philadelphia, to a hospital. The shanties in that neighborhood have been torn down by order of the Board of Health.

An Auburn dispatch says there is no truth whatever in the dispatch concerning the ill health of Gov. SEWARD. He is now in as good health as he has been for months past, and has not suffered recently from any cause whatever.

EDWARD P. WESTON accomplished his feat of walking fifty miles inside of ten and a quarter hours at the Empire Rink yesterday. He then walked half a mile backward, and was enthusiastically cheered at the close of the performance.

The annual regatta of the Atlantic Yacht Club came off yesterday. The sailing was good, though but a slight breeze was blowing. The schooner Tidal Wave came in first; of the first-class sloops the Gracie; second class, Orion; third class, Anna, and fourth, Vivid.

Neither Board of the Common Council had a quorum yesterday. Both Boards will probably meet on Saturday next, and adjourn sine die.

Among the lottery-dealers arrested yesterday, on a charge of doing business without a license, were Alderman CHARLES MCBRIEN, No. 1½ Thompson-street; WILLIAM PARSONS, No. 28 Grand street; DAVID LUBIO, No. 30 Worcester-street; JOHN MCILTIER, No. 216 Canal-street, and RICHARD MARSHALL, No. 26 Laurens-street. The accused was held to bail before Commissioner SHIELDS.

The Republican General Committee, last evening passed resolutions complimenting the successful administration of President GRANT, and indorsing Mr. GRINNELL, Collector of the Port of New-York.

Yesterday afternoon, on a requisition from Gov. RANDOLPH, the notorious TOMMY HENDERS, of 273 Water-street, New-York, was taken to Jersey City, to answer a charge of stealing $3,000 worth of furniture from the residence of THOMAS MARTIN, in Hudson City, some weeks since.

The Public and the Collectorship.

There are many who will read the above line with astonishment, and ask what can the public possibly have to do with the Collectorship? They never before heard of the two things being connected together. They have heard of the "claims" of this clique or the other to the office, but the truth will come upon them as a new revelation that too much care cannot be exercised in making such an appointment, for the sake of the general community, as well as for the credit of the Republican Party. It would be very easy to weaken the party by making a bad appointment—it would be equally easy to inflict great damage upon the public interests.

When we stated that a surreptitious movement was on foot to induce the President to make an ill-advised appointment, several of our contemporaries assured the public that there was no foundation for the rumor. They have learned better since. It is now to be hoped that they will co-operate with us in the endeavor to secure the appointment of the very best man to the office, without reference to noisy cliques, who think they can silence all opposition to their schemes by mere force of bluster and slander. There is, we repeat, such a thing as the public interest to be studied, although that fact has not yet dawned upon the small fry of political intriguers. We have thus far stood almost alone in suggesting that the new Collector ought to be a man who will unquestionably strengthen the party, while at the same time he will be strictly faithful to the public. This is not what interested cliques ask or expect; it does not suit them in any way. But is the President likely to consider the welfare of these cliques, or the welfare of the public? We have always had full confidence that his sympathies would be with the public.

There are very great commercial interests affected by such an appointment as this; but the people who look upon the Custom-house as a rich reservoir of spoils disregard all such considerations. For talking of the "public" instead of supporting a selfish faction, we have exposed ourselves to the anger of everybody who expected to "make something" by the appointment of the candidate whose name has been prominently mentioned. Accusations are launched at us from sources which never make accusations except when they are unfounded. All this we regard as the best compliment that could possibly be paid to a public journal—but let the President inquire from what quarters these attacks proceed, and then judge what sort of opinion the public would have entertained of the appointment once suggested.

We still affirm that the President will neglect a very important opportunity if, whenever he is called upon to appoint a Collector of the Port, he does not choose a man who will study the interests of the public, and do credit to his party—rather than a man who will scatter the patronage of his office among the eager herd who have pushed him into power. The course we have advised will promote the efficiency and harmony of the Republican Party; while the factions which are now pretending to represent that party will be scattered to the winds.

How is Mortimer a Savage.

As a people, we have been greatly described. Travelers have descended upon us from every point of the compass, and, note-book in hand, have compiled for the information of a wondering world marvelous sketches of the great nation of the West. At last, however, we have found the long-sought-for impartial observer—the critic born of our own soil who is yet as destitute of native preposessions as of foreign prejudices. The noble red man is at Washington in all his uncultured and polysyllabic majesty, and in numbers sufficient to hold a council in the Capitol.

When it was lately reported that SPOTTED TAIL feared his veracity would suffer from a recital of the marvels he had seen, we made sundry ineffectual guesses as to what special novelty could have so powerfully impressed the great chief. Now we have found a key to the mystery. The less reticent RED CLOUD has not waited for a return to his people to give his impressions of our civilization. From the safe altitude of his hotel balcony he has looked upon things as they are, but instead of being awed by the sight of the latest products of centuries of refinement and invention, his savage mind is absolutely moved to mirth at the contemplation of the triumphs of modern fashion as displayed in ladies' bonnets, dresses, and waterfalls. What he would think of their boots, we can only dimly conjecture; and it would to us be less interesting to know whether THUNDER SKIN and her sisters will be moved to a jealous emulation of the inexpressibly graceful stoop which is inseparably associated with paniers and high heels.

For the elucidation of questions so interesting, we would suggest that Gen. PARKER reconsider his resolution to keep the Great Chief out of the reach of the interviewers. Even should some enterprising publisher induce the hero of the Sioux to give his impressions to the world, it is probable that we may then have reached a new cycle of fashionable change, and that the old may appear as ludicrous to us as it now does to RED CLOUD. And besides, it is in the nature of things impossible that the Chief can know as much about his own opinions as an enterprising interviewer could extract from him, even with the disadvantage of conversing through an interpreter. Were this embarrassing prohibition but removed, a flood of light might be thrown upon our institutions. The immense talking power of Congress could scarcely fail to receive its meed of unsophisticated admiration, while a vague astonishment would be elicited regarding the crowds of people who throng the capital with no ostensible occupation, and no perceptible means of living. It is sad to think that we may never know whether RED CLOUD and his companion braves ever felt moved to invest in a pearl-colored beaver, or to carry an umbrella with them as a memento of civilization. What their opinions may be about ice-cream and mixed drinks are as much lost to posterity as their judgment about the tariff, the income tax, or the value of Congress from a purely business point of view. There is still a chance, however, of the imaginative faculty of the interviewer coming into play, and inventing for us a complete synopsis of the opinions of Mrs. WHITE COW-RATTLER and Mrs. THUNDER SKIN on the manners and customs of the pale faces.

Parasites as Leaders.

New-York Republicans suffer from too much leadership—not from too little. Their want is not so much the raising up of new leaders, as the decapitation of a crowd of small politicians, who have usurped the functions and exercised the authority of leadership without a particle of legitimate right to the position.

The Republican Party in this City would not recognize in the best of men a right or title to lead, in the spirit usually evinced by the Democracy. The kind of leadership which is absolute is possible only in a party governed through the most rigid discipline. It is a despotism, implying abject partisan vassalage on the part of those who follow. Organization atoms for lack of principles, and partisan zeal is extolled as a quality which covers a multitude of sins. To Republicans this bondage is not possible. They are influenced by motives of another character, are held together by considerations among which the public interest is supreme, and the management most likely to call forth their energies is a management that commands their respect.

And yet we have men perpetually asserting their pretensions to the control of the Republican Party who have no claim upon its confidence, and no qualifications to which it should defer. From this cause, more than from all else, has sprung the demoralization which has familiarized us with defeat. The very frauds sanctioned by the Democrats have been in good part derived from the weakness, the corruptions, and the unworthiness of those who by sheer impudence have taken the local management of the party into their own hands. We have men who are fitted neither by education nor principle to undertake political guidance, claiming favors in the name of the party, and dispensing them with an insolence that is intolerable. We have paltry intriguers, who, tried by any fair standard of merit, would be unable to influence the action of a ward meeting, asserting a title to consideration at Washington, distributing appointments with a special view to their own interests, and anathematizing every one who refuses to aid their schemes. We have self-appointed "leaders," who are always ready to dicker in the matter of nominations, and always intent upon the spoils, yet who parade themselves as Republican managers, and in the name of the party take possession of the offices.

This is the so-called "leadership" from which the Republican Party suffers. This spurious authority it is which perpetually disgraces New-York Republicanism at Washington, and as constantly outrages and disgusts the intelligence and respectability of the party here. In this fact we have the true explanation of the Inkwarmness which characterizes City Republicans on election day, and of the audacity which asserts a virtual ownership of Federal offices and makes merchandise of their patronage and profits. From this great wrong, the President may not be able to deliver us, but he can at least assist in checking it by administering wholesome rebukes to its authors when they seek to influence his action. The smallest men of the party seem now to be at the front in this City. The mites in the cheese begin to think that they are the cheese itself. Is it not time that men whose names are some guarantee of their integrity and ability should oust these pretenders?

Central Park Sense.

The new "Ordinances of the Central Park," just promulgated by the Commissioners of Public Parks, commend themselves to general approval. For section 28 alone, prohibiting the discharge of rockets, torpedoes, double-headers and the like, within the Park precincts, the Commissioners are entitled to applause. To know that there is one blest spot within City limits where weary human nature may find refuge from the clamor of too exuberant patriotism—where the maddening "cracker" and the exasperating "chaser," and the mysterious torturer of the "double-header" will be alike unknown—is to divest the Fourth of July of half its terrors. It is gratifying, too, to learn from section 11 that there is one place in this municipality where hack-drivers will not be allowed to "take in" passengers with impunity. Section 13, denying entrance to vehicles carrying merchandise, is also commendable, though it may seem a trifle ungrateful, since it must work a virtual exclusion of some of the worthy law-givers, to whom the new Commission owes its existence.

There are other regulations in the new code, however, whose purport is not equally clear. Section 23, for example, forbidding performances on any musical instrument without special consent is an eminently wise and merciful provision. Here, then, the ubiquitous organ-grinder may not molest us. But is this rule to be construed to apply to infant trumpeters, babies, birds and musquitoes? Will fretful children be put out by the Police, and the musquito required to do his deadly work in silence? Must the thrushes get a permit from Mr. SWEENY to "warble their native wood-notes wild," and will the mocking-bird be ejected for playing on its musical instrument without a license?

Again, by section 30, "no person not in the employ of the Commissioners shall light, make, or use any fire upon the Central Park." Does this forbid smoking? Section 29 provides that "no person shall go himself, or send any animal into any of the waters of the Park." This is well enough, though unkind to the swans, but suppose the animal goes of its own motion? In Boston, now, where the dogs are all educated, they simply put up a sign, "Dogs are forbidden to enter the frog-pond," and no Boston dog was ever known to transgress. Besides, what is an animal according to the Commissioners? We are told that "no animal shall travel in the Park, except on the ride, at a rate exceeding seven miles an hour." Now, man is an animal, naturalists tell us, and Mr. WESTON is a man, who, we should think, would find it difficult, if not impossible, to restrain himself to such a snail-like pace. Is he, therefore, to be excluded? Section 20 reads, "No dog shall be allowed upon any portion of the Central Park unless led by a chain or proper dog-string * * * nor shall any person lead any quadruped (except dogs) in the Central Park." The question here arises what is a proper dog-string? Youthful poverty drags its cur with a bit of purloined clothes-line, while a velvet ribbon draws the poodle of prosperous beauty. Or suppose Augustus, while witching the world with noble horsemanship, is suddenly dismounted, must he risk his life by resuming his bad eminence because the Commissioners forbid him to lead any quadruped except dogs?

These are difficulties which keener casuists must solve. But the Commissioners may be assured of public support in any measures they may advisedly take to guard the legacy of well-ordered beauty which their predecessors left them.

The Prison Association of New-York.

The Prison Association of New-York have just published their twenty-fifth annual report. Originally established in 1844, the objects of this benevolent Society are, mainly, threefold. First, to give humane attention to persons arrested and held for examination or trial; secondly, to encourage and help discharged prisoners in their efforts to reform and earn an honest living; thirdly, to improve prison discipline. The work of the Association is carried on in three corresponding departments, namely, a detention department, a discharged convict department, and a prison discipline department. As the result of a quarter of a century's labor for these ends, we find in the new report statistics constituting the following summary: 93,560 poor and friendless persons have been visited in the detention prisons of New-York and Brooklyn, "all of whom were counseled or aided, as their several cases seemed to require;" 25,299 complaints have been examined; 6,149 complaints have been withdrawn at the instance of the Society as being of a trivial character, or founded on mistake, prejudice or passion; 7,928 persons were discharged by the Courts, on the recommendation of the Society, who were either "very young, or innocent of the offences charged, or had transgressed under mitigating circumstances, or were manifestly penitent and resolved to sin no more;" 18,307 released prisoners were aided with board, clothing, tools, railroad tickets or money; and 4,139 of the same class have been provided with permanent situations at work. Besides this, assistance has been rendered to thousands of persons connected with the families of prisoners, "the hungry have been fed, the naked clothed, bedding and clothing redeemed from pawnbrokers, and rent paid for those who would else have been turned into the street to starve or steal."

The course pursued by the Prison Association is not, as we need scarcely say, universally approved. It is not, for example, what would be recommended by Mr. CARLYLE. For, as regards the treatment of prisoners, he declares that "a collar round the neck, and a cart-whip flourished over the back; these in a just and steady human hand are what the gods would have appointed them. To guide scoundrels by 'love' is, I take it, a method that will not hold together. Hardly for the flower of men will love alone do; and for the sediment and scoundrelism of men, it has not even a chance to do." There is too little "sweetness and light" here; and yet the remarks contain half truths, so plausible as to cloud and dismay many hopeful and progressive minds. It is a curious fact, and one on which our readers will remember we have commented before, that the Grand Jury of Westchester arraigned the Prison Association, after the insurrection that occurred last Summer at Sing Sing Prison, as being actually the occasion of the mischief. The following expresses their opinion as to the "third cause" of the insurrection, the two first being, respectively, the sweeping changes of officers with every change of political power, and the abolition of certain cruel punishments "greatly dreaded by the convicts?"—"The influence of the Prison Association we believe to be injurious in this respect; that it contributes to a false sympathy on the part of the community, which eventually results in the convicts' being regarded as objects of sympathy and pity, rather than offenders against the peace and welfare of the community; and this, on coming to the knowledge of the prisoners, (as it certainly does, more or less,) causes a general discontent."

Happily, such curious arguments against humanitarian progress are unlikely to be seriously entertained, or to serve any purpose other than that of showing how strangely behind the feeling and culture of the age it is possible for men "dressed in a little brief authority" to be. As we said at the time, such men should have lived before JOHN HOWARD was born. We rejoice that, in spite of them, and others like them, the Prison Association gives such indubitable proofs, as are contained in its twenty-fifth report, of succeeding in its noble work. The report should be carefully examined by all good citizens, in order that they may fully realize the benefits that have been conferred upon the community, and understand who are entitled to the credit of it.

Relief for the Country.

We hear from Washington that there is the prospect of an introduction of a short Tariff bill, with particular reference to the enlargement of the free list. The strength developed in the cause of revenue reform during the debates on the Ways and Means Committee's bill, encourages liberal Republicans to hope that a measure of the nature indicated may yet be passed. The support accorded to Mr. JUDD's proposition, ill-timed and injudicious as it was, is considered encouraging enough to justify a mature and well-conducted effort, irrespective of Mr. SCHENCK's Committee.

Tariff reform, in any comprehensive sense, is for this session obviously unattainable; and it would be better to let the tariff remain as it is another year, than that commerce should suffer from the tinkering of Mr. SCHENCK's measure. Failing to obtain a revision of the whole schedule of duties, the next best thing is the free introduction of raw materials and articles entering into productive industry, on which duties are now imposed. No principle is better established than that which dictates the unchecked admission of whatever contributes to the growth of domestic industry; and none is more flagrantly violated by the law in operation. If it be possible, then, before the adjournment of Congress to push through a bill adding largely to the free list, substantial succor may be afforded to many industries, and the aggregate taxation of the country may be reduced to a point more closely approximating to its expenditures. By this method the gross reduction of taxes will be brought nearer the proper standard than it is likely to be by the Internal Revenue bill now before the House.

The immediate chances of the shortest Tariff bill are not, however, sufficiently certain to excuse remissness in revising the Internal Revenue bill, or to render expedient the retention of revenue from that source to an amount approaching Mr. SCHENCK's figures. Perhaps the best possible arrangement would be the acceptance of Senator SHERMAN's forty-three millions of relief, the modification of the income tax from five to three per cent. included, with supplementary relief to the extent of thirty millions more by the enactment of a large free list. And the remarkable revolution in the sentiment of Congress in regard to the tariff,—contrasting the votes of this year with the votes by which the present schedule was made law,—certainly warrants sanguine expectations as to what sagacity and courage may yet accomplish. But the revenue reformers, who would reduce taxation as well as reconstruct it, ought not to miscalculate their strength. The interests to be benefited by reduction are too numerous and important to be jeopardized by a mistake. If, therefore, after a careful survey of the field, nothing like a certainty of carrying a brief tariff bill appears, it is essential that the entire strength of the reform element shall be concentrated upon efforts to increase the relief afforded by the Ways and Means Committee's bill. We do not undervalue the benefits it confers. But they are so much smaller than the benefits rendered practicable by an enormous surplus, that it is the duty of Congress at least to double the amount of reduction contemplated by Mr. SCHENCK. The country needs all the relief that can be had; and the acceptance of thirty-three millions when seventy are available would be inexcusable folly and injustice. It would be a blunder which the majority in Congress cannot afford to make.

It is time that Congress made up its mind to put a stop to the extravagance involved in allowing expenses in election cases. It was stated, yesterday, that in the course of the last twelve years the sum of $9,300,000 had been paid to contestants. The effect of the encouragement thus given is to multiply such cases to an extent never heard of before. The subject was "considered" yesterday—we hope some day to report that a sensible decision was arrived at respecting it.

The whole tenor of the discussion of the income tax shows that on this point, at least, the House has become thoroughly awake to the feeling of the country relative to a reduction in the burden of taxation. There seems little probability that the recommendation of the Committee on Ways and Means will be entertained. The plan which we have so frequently urged of a reduction in the rate, and an increase in the amount allowed for exemption, ought to be adopted as the best compromise under all the circumstances.

Even the Ohio Democracy have become ashamed of repudiation. There it was that the Pendleton proposition to pay the gold bonds of the Government in depreciated greenbacks obtained nurture and encouragement. It was the influence of Ohio and the West which fastened this doctrine upon the party in its last national campaign, and compelled Mr. SEYMOUR for the time to take his place in the ranks of the repudiators. But the heresy has died out,—its earliest and most steadfast adherents know it no more. The platform of the Ohio Democracy, adopted at their State Convention on Wednesday, is as formidable in length and as fierce in tone as a decree emanating from the Revolutionary Council. It favors taxation of the national securities, but contains not a syllable in regard to the payment of the debt in greenbacks. The convention is tardy but significant.

The work of re-paving some of the streets in the City seems to be purposely made as great a nuisance as possible. The huge cauldron of tar is sometimes kept before one block for weeks together, and the half-suffocating fumes compel the inhabitants of the street to keep their windows and shutters closed even on the hottest day. The Sun has described one such case in which the pitch and tar nuisance has been kept going by three men and a boy for months past, and there is no prospect of relief for the unhappy people in the locality. According to the Sun, the job is likely to take three months more to complete. Will no one go to the rescue of the afflicted citizens?

A correspondent of the Rochester Chronicle, writing from Geneva, tells us that Senator FOLGER's success in the recent election has given the greatest satisfaction in that district. It is regarded as a sign that the people will always sustain by their votes "an honest, upright and competent candidate for high and responsible office." This compliment to Judge FOLGER is well deserved, and carries with it a moral the application of which must be obvious enough to party managers. If all Republican candidates for high office were of the same stamp as Senator FOLGER, there would not be much danger of feuds arising in the party.

The recent fire at Saguenay caused the destruction of a large amount of property, and plunged many families in destitution. In the midst of these misfortunes an incident occurred which it is most pleasant to relate. A farmer named PROSPER GUAY, managed to saved fifteen hundred bushels of wheat from destruction. The impulse of many men would have led them to have sold this wheat at the highest price they could exact at the moment. Farmer GUAY did better. He caused notice to be given after church one Sunday that he would distribute all the grain he had among his neighbors in proportion to their wants, and that those who had the means of paying for it might do so—others might pay him "when they could, and as best they could." This was an act performed according to those old injunctions concerning charity, which are recorded in a volume now pronounced by many to be unfit for our school children to hear read to them. The account from which we quote tells us that "fifteen years ago Farmer GUAY came to the Saguenay a poor man—so poor that his friends had to step in and assist him; today he is the wealthiest farmer in the neighborhood, and in a position to return, out of gratitude, the favors received by him at his setting out in life." May his fields never be barren, nor his barns empty!

Mr. GLADSTONE has at last manifested some interest in worldly pleasures and pursuits. He actually succeeded in bracing his nerves to the point of allowing himself to become a spectator of the race for the Derby on Wednesday. This is probably the first time in his life he has mixed with the volatile throng which ordinarily flocks to a race-course. Probably his reflections on the melancholy occasion were like those which moved Dr. JOHNSON to tears when he saw the crowd at Ranelagh, and considered that there was not one there "who was not afraid to go home and think." An essay by Mr. GLADSTONE on the Derby would be an interesting variation on the themes he usually selects for treatment in his leisure hours.

As will be seen by the resolutions given in another column, the Central Republican Committee, at their meeting yesterday evening, introduced a vote of confidence in the present Collector of the Port of New-York, by a general declaration of their satisfaction with the policy thus far pursued by the President and his Cabinet.

Our vital statistics are manifestly imperfect without a comprehensive registration of marriages and births. We stand almost alone among civilized nations in getting up our figures on these subjects in an exceedingly careless and hap-hazard way. The Health Commissioners of Brooklyn have just issued a request to clergymen to furnish particulars of the marriages they solemnize, and to physicians to supply a record of the births at which they assist. How imperfect must be the return so collated it is scarcely necessary to point out. If such figures have not the merit of accuracy, they are better left alone altogether, since their employment can only obstruct the highly important deductions of social and statistical science which they are expected to assist.

The Spanish Cortes recommence, on Monday, a task which seemed nearer completion two years ago than it is today. Serrano's royal offspring was not more numerous or more shadowy than the line of candidates which have been passed in review by the Spanish Estates since the expulsion of ISABELLA. After all, it seems probable enough that the "orange-grower of Seville," as the Republicans contemptuously call MONTPENSIER, has the best chance of the throne. Any other candidate on which the Deputies would be likely to unite would be a mere appanage to Gen. PRIM, and they will probably be driven to choose between the son of LOUIS PHILIPPE and a Republic. For the latter, to judge by the persistent demand for a King, public opinion is hardly ripe.

Punchinello promises to hold its ground, notwithstanding the numerous predictions that there is no room here for a comic journal. The illustrations improve, and the humor contained in the current number will render it more popular than ever with the public. There is an excellent "adaptation" of the Mystery of Edwin Drood, by "Orpheus C. Kerr," alone worth double the price of the journal in which it appears.

WASHINGTON.

Debate on the Income Tax in the House—Repudiation Again—A Funding Bill Agreed Upon—The Indian Appropriations—The Tariff—Miscellaneous.

Special Dispatch to the NEW-YORK TIMES.

WASHINGTON, June 2.—The discussion on the income tax, today, occupied nearly four hours, and if one is to judge by the volume of expression, the prospect for a continuance of the tax, at any rate, is doubtful, to say the least. During the debate, today, the tax was advocated by Messrs. McCRARY of Iowa, Wilson of Minnesota, Townsend of Pennsylvania, Hale of Maine, Ward of New-York, Finkelnburg of Missouri, Allison of Iowa, Farnsworth, Ingersoll, and Judd of Illinois, Atwood of Wisconsin, Benton of New-Hampshire, and Wheaton and Schenck of Ohio. It was opposed by Messrs. O'Neill, Myers, and Kelly, of Pennsylvania, Hill of New-Jersey, Kellogg of Connecticut, Niblack of Indiana, Wood, Potter, and Davis of New-York, Sargent of California, Fitch, of Nevada, Banks of Massachusetts, Archer of Maryland, and Moore of Illinois. The discussion took a wide range, and a large number of amendments were offered. Finally at 3½, Gen. SCHENCK moved the previous question on the several sections covering this tax, which, being seconded, he then moved that all the amendments be printed and the vote on them be taken to-morrow, which was agreed to. The probability is that, as all the amendments to increase the exemption and reduce the rate must be voted upon before the question can recur on the motion to strike out, the latter will be weakened by the modifications carried, so that it will fail. But in any event, the amount of reduction in the income, which will be about five millions as proposed by the bill, is likely to be more than doubled by either the increase of the exemption to two thousand dollars, or by the reduction of the rate to three per cent.

TAXING THE BONDS.

The House was very nearly caught napping just after the income discussion was closed, by an insidious proposition from Mr. BECK, of Kentucky, to tax the interest of United States bonds five per cent. directly. It did not seem to be understood by many Republicans, and quite a number voted for it under a misapprehension, and, on a division, it seemed to be carried, yeas 90, nays 65; but pending the demand for tellers, Mr. ALLISON sounded the alarm by moving quickly for an adjournment, when members began to inquire if this was not the old repudiation dodge in a new shape. When the matter comes up to-morrow it will be ventilated, and will probably be defeated, as it deserves to be.

A FUNDING BILL AGREED UPON.

The Ways and Means Committee have agreed at last upon a Funding bill. They have held several night sessions lately, and the result is a final agreement upon a bill, the principal feature of which is a thirty year bond at four per cent. interest, free from all taxation. Owing to the extreme reticence of members of the Committee particulars are impossible to-night.

THE INDIAN APPROPRIATIONS.

The Indian Appropriation bill was then taken up, and Mr. MORRILL, of Maine, addressed the Senate at length upon it. His speech was a strong defense of the Indian race, and an earnest appeal to the Government to provide some place somewhere as a resting-place for the Indians from which they shall never again be driven, and where they may be protected in future from the encroachments of the white race. The bill was then read, and various amendments, which had been reported by the Committee, were agreed to.

THE TARIFF.

Your correspondent's prediction that the tariff question would come up again was verified today by the announcement of Gen. SCHENCK, who, in the debate on the income tax, stated that at the end of this bill, entitled "A bill to reduce internal taxation and for other purposes," he should propose several additional sections, involving a further reduction of taxation to the extent of four or five millions. He did not state what he proposed to offer, but it is learned tonight that he will include the free list as fixed by the Ways and Means, and also the rates on tea, coffee and sugar, as fixed in the bill which was laid aside by the House. This action is understood to be on Gen. SCHENCK's own responsibility, and not as the result of any new determination of the Committee. It will inevitably reopen the tariff discussion, as at least two other bills have been drafted for the same purpose, and efforts will be made to introduce coal, salt, hides, &c. It is the desire of Gen. SCHENCK to finish the whole subject this week.

EXPENSES OF CONTESTED ELECTION CASES.

The expense of contested election cases has become such a great evil that the Committee on Elections have been for some time engaged in endeavoring to prescribe under what circumstances and to what extent contestants shall be paid. Gen. PAINE, this morning, reported a resolution to pay several of the Louisiana contestants sums amounting in the aggregate to about $30,000, which was agreed to by ten majority only. He then reported a bill providing that hereafter no contestant shall be paid unless it shall appear that the contest was abundantly justified by the facts in the case, and then only to the extent of his actual expenses. In the discussion which followed Mr. DAWES stated that during the past twelve years more than $300,000 had been paid to contestants in election cases, and there had been more than ninety cases; while in all the years prior thereto there had been only sixty-three contested cases. This, he said, was owing to the facility with which the contestants obtained payment from the contingent fund of the House. Action on Gen. PAINE's bill was not concluded.

THE MISSISSIPPI LEVEES.

The question of Government aid in rebuilding the Mississippi levees was forcibly presented in the Senate, today, by Senator HARRIS, of Louisiana. He presented a resolution instructing the Committee on Commerce to make a personal investigation of the subject, and report the character and extent of the aid to be furnished. Mr. HARRIS presented many facts in support of his argument which put this matter on an equality with the most meritorious internal improvements. He estimates the annual damage to the cotton crops in the Tensas bottoms alone at about $6,000,000. In conclusion he asked that this vitally important national question be no longer delayed, but that an opportunity be afforded for it that early and thorough attention of which it is worthy.

THE FRANKING PRIVILEGE.

The special order, the bill abolishing the franking privilege, was taken up, and an attempt was made by Senator POMEROY to place it at the foot of the calendar of special orders, which signally failed. The bill was then considered, and great license was indulged in by Senators, in order to stave off the measure. Mr. SUMNER wanted to "throw himself on the Senate," for the purpose of bringing forward his cheap postage scheme in connection with the bill. Mr. SHERMAN said it was too bad for this little body, after the House had gracefully flung away this privilege, to interpose objections to its consideration. Finally Mr. POMEROY moved to pass the bill over, and Mr. HAMLIN called the yeas and nays in order to make it a test vote. The result was, yeas 32, nays 26. It was not a test vote, however.

CANDIDATES FOR CADETSHIPS.

The examination of candidates for cadetships at the Naval Academy, who were nominated in March last by members of the House of Representatives, together with the ten at large appointed by the President, will be commenced at the Naval Academy next week.

THE REVENUE BUREAU.

Commissioner DELANO says that if the Tax Reduction bill becomes a law he will be enabled to consolidate many of the revenue districts and largely diminish the force of Assessors and Collectors. Commissioner DELANO today decided that the managers of lotteries who sell tickets and policies through dealers who have not paid their special tax, and for whom the managers have not given bond, are liable to the tax of five per cent. on such sales. He says that the liability would not be changed by the fact that special tax had been paid, if the bond had not been given. He also says that in these cases the dealers are the agents of the managers.

Dispatch to the Associated Press.

RUSSIAN HEMP TARIFF.

The Senate Committee on Finance has made a report on that part of the President's annual Message calling attention to the law regulating the tariff on Russian hemp, and the question whether to fix the charges higher than they are on Manila is not a violation of our treaty with that country, placing her products upon the same footing with those of the most favored nations. The Committee, after an elaborate argument, say that since the act of August 1861, there has been exacted and paid on Russian hemps an excess of duties not exceeding in the aggregate the sum of $200,000 in gold. A majority of the Committee are in favor of reporting a bill refunding the money, while they are unanimously agreed on the bill to equalize the duties hereafter so as to make them conform to the stipulations of the treaty, and as an act of duty and comity toward a friendly Power with which our relations have been amicable, and from which they say, we should expect in a similar case, an equally scrupulous attention to a treaty stipulation.

OCEAN TELEGRAPH.

At its session this morning the House Committee on Foreign Affairs, on motion of Mr. JUNE, resolved that it is inexpedient to grant subsidies in any form (either money or lands) to aid in the construction of ocean telegraph lines. This is a check on the numerous projects of this character that have been urged on Congress at this session.

CUSTOMS RECEIPTS.

The following were the Customs receipts for the week ending May 28: New-York, $2,237,000; Boston, $206,190; Philadelphia, $207,449; Baltimore, $227,272; New-Orleans, (for the week ending May 21,) $116,736; San Francisco, (for the week ending May 21,) $159,234. Total, $3,052,602.

CONSCIENCE MONEY.

Conscience money amounting in the aggregate to $30 50 was received at the Treasury Department today.

NOMINATIONS.

The following nomination was sent in today: ROBERT M. WALKIE, to be Collector of Internal Revenue of the Third District of South Carolina.

FORTY-FIRST CONGRESS.

SECOND SESSION.

SENATE....WASHINGTON, Thursday, June 2.

Mr. FLANAGAN introduced a bill to encourage the construction of the International Pacific Railroad. Referred.

The bill declares the International Railroad of Texas a post route, and authorizes, with the consent of Mexico, the erection of a bridge across the Rio Grande.

REPORTS, BILLS AND RESOLUTIONS.

Mr. TRUMBULL, from the Judiciary Committee, reported the bill requiring the United States Circuit Court to be held at Wytheville, Va., and fixing terms of the District Court.

Mr. SCOTT presented an amendment to the bill relating to bridges across the Ohio River.

Mr. KELLOGG introduced a joint resolution relating to claims of certain Northern creditors. Referred.

The resolution authorizes the Secretary of the Treasury to appoint a commission of three persons to hear and determine the claims of various parties to the sum of $819,000, seized from the Confederate receivers in New-Orleans, for the benefit of Northern creditors whose debts had been confiscated. It was referred to the Committee on Claims.

Mr. HARRIS offered a resolution instructing the Committee on Commerce to inquire into the best means and cost of rebuilding levees on the Mississippi which were destroyed during the war, and to report by bill or otherwise. Adopted.

Mr. HAMLIN introduced a bill prescribing the quality and price of illuminating gas in the City of Washington, and for the inspection of gas meters.

SEA ISLAND LANDS.

The last three minutes of the morning hour were occupied by Mr. SAWYER in an appeal to the Senate to take up the bill for the sale of the lands on the Sea Islands of Beaufort County, South Carolina. The bill was to secure their homes to 5,000 people now subject to all manner of litigation in consequence of the inaction of Congress on the matter.

THE FRANKING BILL.

The morning hour expiring, the Chair announced the Franking bill before the Senate as unfinished business. A motion by Mr. POMEROY to place it at the foot of the calendar of special orders was rejected—yeas 25, nays 31—the motion being upon Mr. DRAKE'S amendment to continue the existing provisions of the law authorizing newspaper exchanges to be sent free, and the free circulation of country newspapers within the county of their publication.

Mr. DRAKE advocated his proposition in the interest of the country papers as against the great dailies.

After debate on a suggestion to take up some other business, Mr. POMEROY moved that the bill be passed over, which, after further talk, was adopted.

THE MISSION TO JAPAN.

Mr. STEWART offered a resolution instructing the Committee on Foreign Relations to inquire into the propriety of raising the rank of the United States representative at Japan from Minister Resident to Minister Plenipotentiary and Envoy Extraordinary. Adopted.

THE INDIAN APPROPRIATIONS.

At 2 o'clock the Indian Appropriation bill was taken up, and Mr. MORRILL, of Maine, Chairman of the Committee on Appropriations, made a statement upon Indian affairs to show the cost of the civil and military service on the Frontiers. He said that today nearly two-thirds of the entire military force of the country were engaged in what might properly be termed a grand Indian hunt after vagabond Indians, the cost, for much was the character of the service known to the country as an Indian war. The cost to the Government of each enlisted man on the plains was $1,000 per annum, and the aggregate cost of the civil and military service on the plains during the last four years was $18,000,000. During the last seven years the army alone on the frontier had cost $145,000,000, while the entire cost of the Indian civil service, in connection with treaty stipulations, was for the same time less than $6,000,000. The entire Indian population on our Western borders was estimated at about 200,000, and although we had treaty stipulations with some of the number, we had declined to the Indians any rights of person or property. In practice we had followed the precepts of the early discoverers, that the Indians had no rights which a white man was bound to respect. While exercising the right of the "conqueror" we had extended our Christian civilization and from civilized communities driven him over the mountains, and were now hemming him in upon the plains. His lands were being ruthlessly invaded by white settlers, and murder and outrage committed upon him without provocation. It was high time for the nation to determine whether the Indians should now be placed where they may have the protection of the laws, or whether the present policy of extermination should be continued, with its attendant expenditure of from twenty to twenty-five millions annually. The Commission to investigate the causes of the Indian war of 1868-69, which cost some forty millions of dollars, expressly exculpated the Indians from blame. He alluded to the Chivington massacre, but thought it unnecessary to go into detail as a matter so familiar to the country. The only defense of the campaign in that country had been an apology from the Commanding-General on the ground that he had been misled by spurious and false information. He characterized the Piegan massacre as a bold, blood-thirsty, unprovoked, unjust and cruel. He did not propose to arraign Gen. SHERIDAN personally but to denounce the system and acts of which that General was a willing instrument. He desired whenever in the history of warfare civilized or savage, any act would be found so abominably dishonorable as was that. General SHERIDAN'S own statement showed that aggressions were first commenced on the Piegan Indians by roving whites, an old man and boy of the tribe being murdered in cold blood. These Indians becoming, naturally restive, the Lieutenant-General proposed to strike them "a hard blow," and the measures that followed showed what a hard blow he did strike. After comment upon similar instances of Indian warfare, as illustrating the hate which seemed to mark the policy of the Government in dealing with the Indians, he expressed the hope that he had said enough to induce the Senate to vote the necessary appropriations for current expenses, to stay bloodshed, and thereby to redeem the pledged faith of the Government. Our Indian difficulties since 1866 were, he thought, fairly attributable to the failure of Congress to vote the appropriations necessitated by the Indian treaties.

Mr. SPRAGUE said he acknowledge Indian aggressions, and was the treaty of country through the medium of treaties, would result only in the murder of settlers who occupied the lands upon our invitation. He defended the pioneer settlers from the charge of aggression upon the Indians. They were, as a rule, law-abiding and honest. No doubt wrong had been inflicted upon the Indians, but the whites were not always to blame. If the statement of Mr. MORRILL had been by the roadside, as he had, hundreds of mutilated bodies of white men murdered by savages, he might realize that there were two sides to the question. The philanthropist of the East, in his anxiety for the red men, had no sympathy for his own race. The Indians start out in the Spring, and plunder and murder, and then make treaty until the Summer is over, when they go back, murdering and plundering. As a rule, they violate treaties with impunity. He would teach them that their traveling over one-half of the territory of the United States, and murdering whenever they chose, must be stopped. It was said their rights were disregarded by bad whites. But if was not bad whites who wrought murders by them, but innocent men, women and children. The remedy was to put them on small reservations that could be easily guarded, and support them at ten per cent. of the present cost to the Government. The Government might almost provide for them in the style of Fifth-avenue of New-York, at less expense than they now cost.

The bill was then partly read, when, at 4:30, the Senate went into Executive Session. At 4:45 a recess was taken until 7½.

EVENING SESSION.

At 7½ o'clock the Senate met.

THE INDIAN BILL.

The Indian Appropriation bill was proceeded with. The Committee on Appropriations reported various amendments making appropriations to carry out treaty stipulations, purchase of clothing and provisions, pay annuities to Indian tribes, &c., including an item of $1,500,000 to carry out the treaty stipulations with the Sioux, which were severally adopted. An amendment to prevent the payment of claims for Indian depredations out of money appropriated to pay annuities for tribes was defeated.

Mr. THAYER and Mr. HOWARD favored the mode of indemnity indicated by the amendment. The amendment was finally agreed to.

An amendment from the Committee on Appropriations, that upon annuities and interest of trust funds provided by treaties no taxes shall be levied, was agreed to. Also, one to strike out, and also an amendment continuing the Indian Peace Commission so long as appropriations for their expenses shall last.

At 10 o'clock the Senate adjourned.

HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES.

Mr. SCHENCK presented petitions of 120 brewers of the State of New-York for the repeal of the law classifying brewers of malt liquors as dealers in spirituous liquors; and of 300 tobacco manufacturers of Brooklyn, for a uniform tax of 16 cents per pound on all manufactured tobacco and snuff.

SOLDIERS' MONUMENT IN POUGHKEEPSIE.

Mr. KETCHAM, by unanimous consent, introduced a joint resolution, authorizing the Secretary of War to deliver to the municipal authorities of Poughkeepsie, N. Y., three condemned iron cannon, two condemned brass cannon, and 200 round shot, to be used in the erection of a soldiers' monument at that place. Passed.

REPORTS FROM COMMITTEES.

Mr. MERCUR, from the Judiciary Committee, reported a bill assuring certain counties to the jurisdiction of the Western Judicial District of Pennsylvania. Passed.

Mr. LOGAN, from the Committee on Military Affairs, reported a bill authorizing the settlement of the accounts of JOSEPH G. MCNUTT, late Captain and Assistant Quartermaster. Passed.

Mr. HOOPER, from the Committee on Ways and Means, asked leave to report a bill for the appointment of an Assistant Treasurer of the United States at Baltimore. Mr. FARNSWORTH objected.

BILLS INTRODUCED.

Bills were introduced and referred as follows:

By Mr. ROOT—Authorizing the construction of a bridge across the Arkansas River at Little Rock, Ark. By Mr. CLARK, of Texas—Authorizing the donation of certain property of the United States in Galveston, Texas, to that city. Passed.

PAY IN CONTESTED ELECTION CASES.

Mr. PAINE, Chairman of the Committee on Elections, reported a bill to pay to Clark S. HUNT, $2,000; to L. H. SPERRY, $4,000; to LOUIS ST. MARTIN, $4,000; to GEORGE W. MCCRACKEN, $6,000; to FRANK MORREY, $8,000, and to MICHAEL RYAN, $8,500 for time spent and expenses incurred in presenting their respective claims to seats in the House from the State of Louisiana. The resolutions were adopted; yeas, 71, nays, 67. Mr. PAINE also reported the bill regulating the compensation in cases of contested elections.

It provides that in contested election cases, no money shall be paid as mileage or compensation to either the sitting member or contestant until the case is decided, and then only mileage and compensation shall be paid to the person only to whom the seat shall be finally accorded. The second section provides that the person against whom the adverse decision is made, is to receive only the actual expenses he has necessarily expended, in prosecuting or defending his rights.

Mr. BURR moved to strike out the first section, on the ground that all persons actually holding seats are in all respects equal and entitled to the same rights.

Mr. STEVENSON moved an amendment to allow the sitting member the mileage and compensation during the pendency of the contest. In other words, he would put the sitting member on half-pay, and if he was unsuccessful he would let the contestant receive the other half.

The bill was debated at considerable length. In the course of the discussion Mr. DAWES stated that the amount paid in twelve years up to the beginning of the Congress of men whom the House had decided have no just claim was $173,695, and to that sum the present Congress had added fifty million dollars. During the twelve years up to the beginning of this Congress, there had been sixty-five contested elections in the House, and only sixty-three in all the years that went before. In this Congress there had been thirty more, making ninety-five contests in fourteen years, and sixty-three only in the fifty preceding years. This very day $19,500 had been voted to men who had been decided to have no right to a dollar, because they had no right to seats.

THE INCOME TAX.

While Mr. DAWES was speaking the morning hour expired, and the House, at 10½ o'clock, resumed the consideration of the bill to reduce internal taxes, the question being on the sections relating to the income tax.

Mr. MCCRARY opposed its abolition. Mr. O'NEIL argued for its absolute repeal. Mr. WILSON, of Minnesota, held that it should be continued as it was, the barest of all taxes, because it fell on the rich, not on the poor. Mr. TOWNSEND declared that the clamor for its repeal was from men of large fortune, and found no response from the people; and he favored the raising of the exemption to $2,000, and the reduction of the rate to three per cent. Mr. JUDD offered amendments confining the tax to invested capital, and excluding profits and incomes. Mr. KELLOGG characterized the tax as odious and unpopular. Mr. NIBLACK said it was an irritating and provoking tax, and revenue enough could be collected without it. Mr. HALE moved to increase the exemption to $2,000. Mr. WARD declared that the opposition to the tax sprung from very small special interests; special interests got hold of the newspapers, pursued members into their committee rooms and to their homes, and these were every day set up to be regarded in proportionate of the interest of the great masses of the people. If they abolished the income tax they abolished the only tax that reached personal property, or that reached the income of the bond-holders. Mr. MYERS advocated its abolition, and in reply to the statement of his colleague, Mr. TOWNSEND, that this cry did not come from the country, he stated that the farmers did not pay an income tax; but city men—the City of Philadelphia, for instance, he said—paid more than several States put together. Mr. FERRIS moved to reduce it to half the amount now levied, and if he was unsuccessful he would let the question stand as it was, but not its abolition. Mr. WOOD believed that this tax was unjust, unequal and unconstitutional. It bore upon the people. The largest tax-payer in the United States was A. T. STEWART. He had paid tax on an income of $1,000,000 a year into the Government, but he was not the man who actually paid it. It was the people who purchased goods from him, for he charged the tax upon them in the prices demanded for his goods. Mr. ALLISON argued that according to the argument of Mr. WOOD, the people of the Western States while not paying so much manufacturing tax directly as the people of the Eastern States, paid that tax indirectly, just as Mr. STEWART'S customers paid his income tax in the additional prices for his wares. Mr. POTTER said that the evil of this law was its demoralizing character, and that it afforded a reward to fraud and falsehood, and imposed a burden on honesty and fair dealing.

Mr. DAWES concluded his argument of yesterday against it. Mr. BARNES was opposed to it in all forms. It was unequal and unjust. The bank tax was collected of wages and on salaries. Messrs. INGERSOLL and POMEROY supported its continuance. The latter denied that the people asked for its repeal, and asserted that it was only the wealthy and the Metropolitan journals. The debate on the general question was further continued, but no vote signifying any advance, had finally

Mr. MORGAN offered an amendment levying a tax of five per cent. on incomes derived from bonds of every description, notes and mortgages and other securities over the sum of $1,000 and under $10,000, seven per cent. on sums between $10,000 and $50,000, and eight per cent. on sums over $50,000. He urged in support of his amendment.

Mr. GARFIELD offered an amendment removing the tax from incomes derived from business and confining it to incomes derived from capital, and argued in support of that proposition.

Mr. FARNSWORTH inquired whether that excluded members of Congress.

Mr. GARFIELD did not care whether it did or not. It was intended to meet the objection that the income tax weighed unjustly on business and professional men and let vested capital escape. He had no doubt his amendment would have the support of every member from Massachusetts, and remit the other half. It was a sort of compromise measure.

Mr. WOODWARD moved as a substitute for the Thirty-fifth section imposing the income tax, a section providing for the withholding of a tax of five per cent. on the interest on the bonds of the United States hereafter issued, to be above exempt. He argued that Congress would in his amendment find a complete substitute for the income tax which he would then have voted away altogether. There was not a particle of repudiation in it, because all who held these bonds were bound in every principle of reciprocity to contribute to the support of the Government, which secured their property valuable and safe.

Mr. JUDD explained the amendment which he had offered, confining the tax to invested capital, and excluding profits and incomes. It left in the bill the taxation on bonds, notes, securities, and all that class of property. It struck out all relating to the business of the country derived from trade, which he believed the trader charged over to the consumer. It left to be taxed all incomes derived from speculation in real estate, and incorporated companies. It struck out all that gave no revenue. If the amendment were adopted, it would leave the tax to be imposed on the invested and realized capital of the country, and not on the productive industry.

Mr. BROOKS, of Massachusetts, offered an amendment striking out the provision requiring a man to account for the income of minor children.

Mr. HOAR offered an amendment prohibiting the publication of income returns.

Mr. BECK offered an amendment reducing the number of persons to be allowed deductions in religious or social communities from ten to eight.

Mr. DAWES moved to reduce the number to five.

Mr. AMBLER offered an amendment requiring that legacies and successions, when not direct from the decedent to his wife or family, shall be accounted for as an income.

Other amendments were offered by Messrs. LOUGHRIDGE, CLEVELAND, BUTLER and others.

Mr. AXTELL regretted that he should not have had an opportunity to express his views in five minutes. The Speaker remarked that there were forty other gentlemen in the same position. Further amendments were offered by Messrs. Mayham, Lafin, Burchard, Townsend, Ely, Lynch and Insersoll.

Mr. SCHENCK closed the discussion. He said that the Committee had proposed to reduce the income tax by increasing the exemption to $1,500, which would be a reduction of nearly six millions. His own opinion was that that was about as much as they dare to do at this time. But he was not at all prepared to say that next year and the year after, and so on, these reductions might not be continued. Gentlemen were not to be misled by supposing that that was to be proposed by the Committee of Ways and Means in the case of a reduction of taxation. It was included in this bill, and he had no objection in stating distinctly, at the risk of misunderstanding, that he had a section or two prepared to be offered at the close of this bill, which was a bill "to reduce internal taxation and for other purposes," which would so amend, by short provisions, the tariff as to take off some twenty-fives or twenty-five per cent. Gentlemen had this bill, and the Internal Revenue bill. If the proposition to strike out the income tax should prevail, he wanted gentlemen to remember that they would not only strike out twenty-five millions of the revenue, the loss of which could not be afforded, but would strike out the only provisions made in law, and the only one, at some thought, that could be made in law, for taxing the income on United States bonds. In conclusion, Mr. SCHENCK moved the previous question.

The previous question was seconded, and by agreement the vote on the sections in relation to the income tax with all the amendments, was postponed until to-morrow.

Mr. BECK offered an amendment to the forty-fourth section, the effect of which would be to tax the interest on all Government bonds five per cent.

On a division, the Speaker announced the vote to be 96 to 65.

Mr. WILLARD demanded the yeas and nays, remarking that this was taxing United States bonds held abroad, and was to that extent repudiation.

Mr. ALLISON moved an adjournment. Agreed to by 93 to 82.

The House then, at 4:10, and amid much excitement, adjourned.

AMUSEMENTS.

Miscellaneous Notes.

WALLACK'S THEATER.

The closing week of the season at Wallack's Theater bears the same impress of variety which has distinguished the earlier stages of the Winter and Spring. Monday and Tuesday "The Honeymoon" was acted, with Mr. J. W. WALLACK'S finished and vigorous performance of Duke Aranza, and Miss HENRIQUES' graceful personation of Juliana. Wednesday these same artists won greatest laurels as Mathew and as Margaret Elmore in "Love's Sacrifice," and Tuesday "Married Life" was given. To-night "The Rent Day" and "Is He Jealous" are to be repeated. At the matinee Saturday "Americans in Paris" and "Trying It On" are to be played, and Saturday evening a performance of "Love's Sacrifice" will close a very brilliant season.

BEETHOVEN CENTENNIAL FESTIVAL.

Preparations in connection with the choral arrangements for the festival are progressing, and it is anticipated that no less than two thousand singers will be drawn from different parts of the country. Boston is to send 700 members of the Handel and Haydn Society; Hartford will furnish 200 or more; New-Haven about 250; Waterbury 40, and Newark 300 or more. The conductors engaged are P. S. GILMORE, CARL BERGMAN, CARL ZERRAHN and Dr. JAMES PECH, the last of whom is to direct the oratorios of the "Messiah" and the "Creation." The various divisions of this large chorus are meeting daily at Steinway Hall and passing through the necessary rehearsals.

MR. PARKES' BENEFIT.

The complimentary benefit to Mr. A. L. PARKES occurs this day and this evening at Wood's Museum. Excellent bills are presented, and their attractiveness, with that of the beneficiaire's name, will, we think, prove as potent as he can desire.

The President and the San Domingo Treaty.

From the Evening Mail, June 1.

The President has shown his usual and characteristic persistence in adhering to the San Domingo Treaty, and yesterday sent to the Senate a special message in its favor. The case seems too plain to need much argument, and it is a pity that the President has been forced to virtually implore Senators to consider it, but they will need to present very strong reasons for opposing Executive recommendations so earnestly urged, and so much modified to meet objections to the treaty.

If the San Domingo Treaty is finally dropped, we might as well make a formal announcement of the abandonment of our much-vaunted Monroe doctrine. This treaty offers us the finest naval and maritime station in all the West Indies, at a price which is merely nominal. It presents an opportunity for us to extend the commercial, political and moral influence of the Republic over a cluster of island States whose future is full of promise. It gives the United States a foot-hold and an extreme south-eastern outpost from which we could best defend aggressions against the Monroe doctrine.

If we are lacking in either the wisdom or the pluck to avail ourselves of this rare opportunity, we can not be surprised to learn that some European power has stepped in and concluded a good bargain with the Dominican Government, nor to find that we shall be regarded as degenerate and feeble successors to the generation of Americans who made Europe respect the bold assertion and maintenance of the Monroe doctrine.

Death of an Old African Chief.

From the Boston Traveller, June 1.

Late Cape Town, South Africa, papers announce the death of the aged African chief, Moshesh, who for fifty years had been the wise and brave ruler of the Basutos, one of the most powerful of the aboriginal nations of Southern Africa. He began his career as a warrior about 1824, and was engaged in many hard-fought battles with native chiefs, with whom he was generally victorious, and finally, with the English, who continually encroached upon his territory and finally conquered him about 1865. Yet MOSHESH was not a bloody man. He boasted—and there was no one to contradict his word—that he had never shed the blood of a man except in war. He was an enlightened Pagan, and abolished capital punishment for witchcraft. He was a benevolent man, according to the light which he had, and freely exchanged his superfluous cattle for wives for his poorer subjects, while he restricted his own harem to some thirty or forty women only, instead of hundreds, as he might have had just as easily had.

THE TURF.

The Prospect Park Association Spring Meeting—Third Day's Trotting—Patchen Chief Wins the 2:30 Purse, and Goldsmith Maid the $5,000 Purse—Time of the Great Heats, 2:23 1-2, 2:22, 2:24 1-2.

Yesterday was the third and final day of the trotting meeting held on the Fair Grounds Course of the Prospect Park Association. The weather being favorable, there was a very large assemblage of spectators anxious to witness the contest between American Girl, Goldsmith Maid and George Wilkes, for the purse of $5,000 offered by the Association, free for all horses except Lady Thorn. This exclusive and narrow-minded policy on the part of the Association, and which, it is right to state, was pursued last year with regard to Mountain Boy and Lady Thorn, this year deprived the race of the interest that would have been centered in the race. If Lady Thorn had been allowed to take part in the race yesterday thousands would have flocked to the course to witness it, and it would have been one of surpassing interest, for both Goldsmith Maid and her lady-like rival have come out fresh and vigorous for the race, while American Girl and George Wilkes had each trotted a severe race two days before. Fortunately for the purposes of the trotting turf, the Boston, Fleetwood, Fashion, and Buffalo courses pursue a different and more liberal course of management, and the public will, at these meetings, have an opportunity of witnessing all these horses in their contests of speed for the rich purses they offer.

The first race was for a purse of $1,500, for horses that never beat 2:30 in harness. Seven horses entered and all of them started. They were L. L. DORSEY'S ch. m. Rose Goldvein, F. J. NODINE'S blk. m. Eastern Queen, J. MURPHY'S g. g. Carroll, (formerly Century,) Mr. DANIELS' b. m. Dora, R. BONNER'S b. g. Rambler, S. JAMESON'S b. g. Dep, and J. ODIRNE'S blk. s. Patchen Chief. The last-named horse had won a race at Trenton the week before in such commanding style that he was at once installed the favorite. On the morning of the race he was purchased by Mr. JAY IRVING, the New-York assemblyman, for $15,500, with his entire equipments, and his new owner, we understand, backed him spiritedly for yesterday's race, and got a considerable moiety of his purchase money back on his first race. He is a powerfully-built, but finely-proportioned black stallion, possessed of a wonderful turn of speed, as he showed yesterday in the first heat, which he won in 2:27, but we really think he could, if desired, have done it in 2:25, or less. He has three engagements at Boston at Fleetwood Park, and bids fair to sweep the board. His new owner offered to match him for $10,000 against Mr. BONNER'S young stallion Henry W. Genet. Time will show whether the bold challenge will be accepted. Certain it is, that if the owner of Henry W. Genet was not unfortunately suffering from severe indisposition at present, a response one way or other would have been promptly made. Patchen Chief sold high in the pools before the race, bringing $200 to Carroll and the field's $100. Carroll, who had a host of friends, was formerly called Century, and was originally purchased out of a milk-wagon (like Dreadnaught, the winner of the purse on the Union Course on Monday,) for $400, and four months afterward was sold for $2,500, as a private driving horse, to a gentleman then occupying a high position under the Old Union State Government. The departure of the latter for Europe, some time after, led to his sale, and he is now regularly on the trotting turf. In this race, however, although second favorite, he was only able to secure the third money. Prince, the well-bred chestnut gelding, by Jaspar Abdallah, showed himself a better horse than the majority of people, after his defeat by Dreadnaught on the Union Course, gave him credit for, and he managed to win the $300 for second horse. The race itself admits of but little description. The start for the first heat was delayed for nearly an hour by SAM JACKSON'S horse, Dep, who could not be induced to come up with the others. Fortunately, however, on the unanimous judge fervently declared, he was distanced in the first heat. Patchen Chief won the race in three straight heats, with perfect ease; although in the last one Prince came on him with a rush at the finish, and caused him to break, but he still had a clear length to spare. Prince took the second money, and Carroll the third. The time was 2:27, 2:24, 2:30¾.

The second race was for the purse of $5,000, for all horses except Lady Thorn, the winner taking $3,000, the second $1,500, and the third $500. The entries were B. DANIELS' b. m. American Girl, W. BORST'S b. s. George Wilkes, and BUDD DOBLE'S b. m. Goldsmith Maid. The latter was a great favorite, for, besides being fresh and in superb condition, she had never defeated a mare before, while both of her opponents had had a severe five-heat contest two days before. This had not affected Wilkes, for he seemed all the better for it, but American Girl had not recovered from the effects, for she had gone off her feed, and her owner advised every one not to back her for this race. The preceding evening she was advertised in the pools selling—Goldsmith Maid selling for $400, American Girl $200, and George Wilkes $20.

FIRST HEAT.—Wilkes went off in front, American Girl breaking directly afterward and falling behind. Wilkes led the Maid two lengths at the turn, and a length at the quarter-pole in 37½ seconds, the girl being a little behind. Then the Maid at that point. Goldsmith Maid broke on the backstretch, but DOBLE caught her directly, and she was at Wilkes' wheel at the half-mile pole in 1:12¾. She broke again on the lower stretch, but was down instantly; and steadily gaining on the stallion, was at his head at the distance, when Wilkes had admitted him, and won easily by two lengths in 2:23¾.

SECOND HEAT.—Betting $250 to $80 on Goldsmith Maid against the field. The favorite led from start to finish, making the quarter in 36¾ seconds, the half mile in 1:10½, and winning the heat by four lengths in the fastest time this season, 2:22; George Wilkes second, six lengths before American Girl.

THIRD HEAT.—No betting. Goldsmith Maid led four lengths to the first quarter in 36 seconds, and two lengths to the half in 1:11¾, with the stallion second. The Maid won the heat as she liked by two lengths in 2:24½, George Wilkes taking second money.

Twentieth Ward Grammar School—Opening of the New Building.

The new Grammar School of the Twentieth Ward was formally opened, yesterday, for the inspection of the general public. It is on West Thirtieth-street, near Sixth-avenue; its height in the front is 100 feet; depth, 105 feet; main height, 70 feet; height of tower, 90 feet; and it has four wings independent of the main building. Besides the trustees' and janitors' apartments, it comprises twenty-five class-rooms and two assembly-rooms, and is supposed to be capable of accommodating 2,000 children. It is fitted up with all the modern improvements and in accordance with the wish of the Board of Education, and the trustees, it has been supplied with Peard's patent school furniture. The school was erected to relieve the inconvenience arising from insufficient accommodation in the Twenty-eighth-street Grammar School, and will be exclusively devoted to the education of boys, under Mr. HUGH CARLYLE, as Principal, and Miss ANNIE E. MURRAY teacher of the Primary Department. The work was commenced near two years ago, under the supervision of Mr. R. MACVAY, and has been just completed at a cost of $150,000. On Monday next business will be commenced there, when it is expected over 1,200 boys will be in attendance.

Home Again—Five Hundred Disgusted Fenians Returned in Safety.

About 500 hundred Fenians yesterday arrived in this City from Malone, via the Hudson River Railroad. Two hundred of them met some by the 8:45 A. M. train; the balance arrived at 11:20 A. M. These men were clothed, some in green, some in plain black suits, and others in nondescript garbs. Of the 500 Fenians who arrived at 11½ A. M., sixty or more were Philadelphians. They were conveyed to their homes. On the arrival of the train a pitched battle took place between some of the brethren, which was quickly checked by the arrival of the police.

Some fifteen or twenty returned Fenians, several of them wearing the green uniform and knapsacks with which they set out to invade Canada, and all of them looking tired, hungry, tired and disgusted, assembled in the City Hall Park yesterday, taking up a position on the ground which the Public Park Commissioners have lately had dug up with so much care. Here they were surrounded by about 200 of the loungers who frequent the Park; but as these had nothing to offer them, the men in green seemed tired and strolled off to various points. It was rumored that several of them paid a visit to Mr. WM. M. TWEED, but the truth of this could not be ascertained.

Weston's Pedestrian Feat—Fifty Miles in Ten Hours.

Mr. EDWARD P. WESTON took a benefit at the Empire Skating Rink, yesterday, accomplishing fifty miles (by one measurement) within ten hours, and by HORACE GREELEY'S measurement, in ten minutes and thirty seconds over ten hours. There was quite a large number of spectators in the evening, and all appeared to be very respectable, and as the conclusion of the feat the spectators gave WESTON hearty applause. He announced that he would walk fifty miles within ten hours and fifteen minutes, and afterward would walk half a mile backward. WESTON commenced his task over the same track used by him a week ago, at 8 o'clock noon precisely. He was dressed in a costume similar to that which he wore during his hundred-mile feat, and was treated in the same manner by his attendants. During the twenty-seventh mile he seated five minutes, while he partook of some great. The thirty-ninth mile was done in ten minutes fifty-six seconds. His half-mile walk backward was made in ten minutes thirty-seven seconds, and while doing this he was fully dressed in velvet coat, kid gloves on his hands and hat on his head. After this performance was over he made a brief address to the audience, announcing his intention of making a tour in Europe, and thanking them for their patronage. The times of each mile is given below:

Mile.	Time.	Mile.	Time.
1	1:04	18	1:13
2	11:19	19	11:12
3	11:19	20	11:12
4	11:20	21	11:11
5	11:20	22	11:09
6	11:20	23	11:54
7	11:04	24	11:09
8	11:04	25	11:09
9	11:08	26	11:54
10	11:08	27	11:06
11	11:40	28	11:06
12	11:40	29	11:06
13	11:20	30	11:34
14	11:14	31	11:09
15	11:22	32	11:49
16	11:22	33	11:49
17	11:17	34	11:51

Each circuit of the backward walk was made in the following time:

1st	2:17	3d	2:32
2d	2:40	4th	2:27

The official time of the fifty miles was as follows:

City Surveyor's measurement, 9:38:56; HORACE GREELEY'S measurement, 10:01:30.

Mr. WESTON will realize about $1,000 by this feat. Measles is reported to be rife, which will assist him materially in the future.

The New Common Council.

The Common Council for 1870 will organize at noon, on Monday next. It is not likely that the Mayor will send in any message at the organization, but he will probably do so at a later period. The Board of Aldermen will consist of fifteen members, and the Board of Assistants of twenty-one, all Democrats of the Tammany stripe. Seven members of the old Board of Aldermen have been re-elected as follows: Thomas COMAN, Edward CUDDY, James MCKEEVER, Bryan REILLY, Edward SCHLICHTING, EF. WARD WALSH and Henry WEHMAN. Mr. THOMAS COMAN will be elected President of the Board, and Ex-Alderman JOHN HARDY, Clerk. Mr. FRANCIS J. TOOHEY will be appointed to his old position of Deputy, which he has filled so ably for so many years.

The Board of Assistant Aldermen will in all probability elect Mr. JOHN GALVIN for President, and Mr. WM. H. MOLONEY Clerk. The claims of the various applicants for the subordinate clerkships of both Boards have not yet been decided on. There is a warm contest for the offices of Sergeant-at-Arms of both Boards, and who will get them is yet to be seen. Of the twenty-one members composing the new Board of Assistant Aldermen, twelve sit in the present Board, as follows: Patrick LYNAGHE, Hugh O'BRIEN, John GALVIN, Isaac ROBINSON, John HAMPSON, Hubert ODELL, Henry ROGERS, Thos. MULLIGAN, Edward COSTELLO, John REILLY, Chas. FEITNER, Bartholomew MCDONALD.

It will be seen therefore, that the hopes of those who supposed the character of the Common Council would be changed by the new charter, have been sadly disappointed. Both Boards are so similar in every respect to the present Boards that they might, so far as the interests of the City are concerned, just as well have been kept in.

REAL ESTATE TRANSACTIONS.

The great Dyckman sale, which was begun on Wednesday, was concluded at the Exchange yesterday, and 439 additional lots were disposed of, making 968 in all. The sale began at noon, and the last lot was knocked down at 8:40 P. M. The attendance was very large and the bidding spirited, while the lots on the average brought a somewhat better price than on the day before. The entire sum realized will foot up over $435,000. Considerable anxiety was shown to gain possession of the lots and the water rights sold with them belonging to the property fronting on the Harlem River, at the foot of the streets from Two Hundred and Seventh to Two Hundred and Eleventh respectively. Two of these lots, with the said water privileges, bounded by Two Hundred and Eighth and Two Hundred and Ninth streets, sold for $9,100. The others also brought excellent prices. The largest buyers yesterday were E. C. Cornell, M. B. Wilson, Mr. Mead, Mr. Lennox, J. Fox, Mr. McCreary, A. Bellamy, T. I. Tolgnet, G. V. Abbe, H. Patterson, W. H. Potter and E. H. Munson. One or two whole blocks were purchased by Messrs. MUNSON and CORNELL respectively. The sale is reported as having been a most successful one, and the prices obtained for the lots generally good. To those interested in real estate it has been important as tending to settle to a great extent the value of property in this section of the city. The details of the day's transaction will be found in full below.

In addition to the above, ROBERTS & MCGUIRE had also a heavy sale of valuable improved and unimproved City property, the result of which was most satisfactory. The lots disposed of were located in Mott, Elizabeth and Houston streets, and on Tenth-avenue and Forty-sixth-street. The sale was made in partition, by order of the Supreme Court, under the direction of JAMES H. COLEMAN, referee, and the amount recovered for the property sold was over $100,000. The principal purchasers were TERENCE FARLEY and J. M. FURSTAN. The location of the lots and other matters pertaining thereto, is contained in the summary annexed. D. M. SEAMAN, also in partition, by order of the Court, ROBT. F. LITTLE, referee, sold a house and lot on Duane-street, known as No. 191, for $16,825; HENRY MCCADDIN, Jr., being the buyer.

A. D. MELLICK, Jr. & Brother sold a very desirable farm located in Bloomfield, N. J., consisting of a dwelling in Gothic style, together with twenty-eight acres of land. The premises were struck off to S. E. DUTCHER for $18,000, which was a low price, the property being well situated, in good repair and easy of access to the City.

The transactions of yesterday make the day a marked one in the real estate market, and, taken in the aggregate, are the largest on the Exchange which have been made in many months.

ON THE OCEAN WAVE.

The Annual Regatta of the Atlantic Yacht Club.

A Pleasant Day and a Fine Display—The Schooner Tidal Wave and the Sloops Gracie, Orion, Anna, and Vivid the Victors.

The annual regatta of the Atlantic Yacht Club took place yesterday, and as usual attracted a vast attendance of people, both from this City and Brooklyn. The steamer Virginia Seymour, carrying the judges and the members of the Press, left the foot of Montagus-street at 9 o'clock A. M. The judges' boat proceeded at once to the point designated, off the Brooklyn shore, where it remained until the various craft got under way. At an appointed signal the fleet started out, the entries being as follows:

Schooners—Calypso, Lois, Madeline and Tidal Wave.

First-class Sloops—Addie V. and Gracie.

Second-class Sloops—Alarm, Daghee, Orion, Qui Vive and Richard Kelly.

Third-class Sloops—Anna, Jennie, Nimbus, Storm King and White Cap.

Fourth-class Sloops—Apollo, Coquette, Flyaway, Jennie, Viking and Vivid.

On the start, the first whistle from the judges' boat being blown at 11:57 A. M., and the second (the starting signal) at 11:59:40, the vessels all put out to sea. The sloop Addie V. led the fleet, followed closely by the Gracie, and these two kept the lead for a long time. The schooners ranged as follows: Madeline, Calypso, Lois and Tidal Wave. On making the first tack the Madeline was ahead, followed by the Calypso, and, successively, by the Lois and the Tidal Wave, the last mentioned for a short time standing in shore, and, apparently, determined to hug the land. Then came the first contest between the schooner craft. The Tidal Wave did her best to weather the Madeline, which took the lead, but finding it impossible, went about. The Madeline, now having made her first tack, ran up her main topsail, and scudded away in gallant style, closely followed by the Calypso. As the fleet sailed by the shore between Bay Ridge and the Owl's Head, the appearance presented by the yachts was remarkably fine, all the vessels, as it appeared from the judges' boat, being bunched together. The lead was kept by the Addie V., (first-class sloop,) the Gracie, also first-class, following hard after her. The Qui Vive (second-class) came next, and the balance of the fleet heterogeneously followed. On passing Fort Hamilton the vessels were placed respectively as follows: Schooners—Madeline, Tidal Wave, Calypso, Lois. First-class sloops—Addie V. and Gracie, the latter doing her best to get how on to her competitor, and being sailed with most remarkable skill. Of the second-class sloops the Qui Vive kept the lead. Of the third-class the White Cap went to the front, the Apollo leading the fourth-class (open) boats. In this position the leading boats of each class were kept going through the Narrows, and, it was maintained until nearing the South-west Spit. The wind, however, changed just at this juncture, and advantage was taken of it on every hand. On rounding the buoy at the South-west Spit the line was as follows: 1. The Addie V., time 1:48:15; 2. the Gracie, 1:48:50; 3. the Qui Vive, 1:58:25; 4. the Orion, 2:06:; 5. the Madeline, 2:08:25; the White Cap, 2:11:50; the Tidal Wave, 2:23:16; the Daghee, 2:3:15; the Anna, 2:8:10; the Flyaway, 2:12:40; the Vivid, 2:14:35; the Calypso, 2:14:55; the Viking, 2:16:25; the Apollo, 2:18:16; the Alarm, 2:18:25; the Storm King, 2:21:30. Here the fourth-class boats, according to rule, started homeward, leaving the schooners, the first, second and third class sloops to pursue their way to the Sandy Hook lap, which they soon afterward made in the following order: First, Qui Vive, time—2:38:15; second, the Orion, time—2:37:16; third, the White Cap, time—2:39:30; fourth, the Daghee, time—2:42:40; fifth, the Anna, time—2:48:30. Here the second and third class sloops left the fleet and proceeded homeward.

At the light-ship, rounded only by the schooners and the first-class sloops, the order was as follows, viz.: The Gracie ahead, (having caught up on the tack while both sloops were standing in from the northward) time—2:24; followed closely by the Addie V., (which appeared, at one time during the northward tack, almost to lay her,) time—2:24:49, leaving only 49 seconds difference between them. Here, however, a curious maneuver took place. The Captain of the Addie V., to the astonishment of all nautical men on board the judges' boat, evidently desirous to make up for the time gained by the Gracie, just after rounding the light-ship, bounced out his jib to windward, thinking it possible by that means to catch breeze enough to enable him to recover the distance lost on the northward tack. The experiment proved unsuccessful, however. The breeze seemed to fill in adversely, driving his jib bellying inward, and his beautiful craft was actually contending against an apparently adverse wind blowing full fore and aft. He kept up these tactics, however, most unwisely, while the Gracie, having fully rounded, stood off on her southward tack and actually ran away from him, every minute increasing the gap between the two sloops, and so keeping up the homestretch the advantage thus gained. The schooners rounded the light-ship in the following order and time: Tidal Wave, 3:51:25; Madeline, 3:54:25; Calypso third, from eight to ten minutes behind; and the Lois about twenty minutes behind—the time of the last two not being taken.

On the homestretch the race was beautifully contested, each boat coming down under a full spread of canvas, and the sailing-masters displaying most excellent tactics. The judges' boat steamed down to the stake-boat in the bay—the terminus of the race—and awaited the arrivals, which took place in the following order:

Fourth-class sloops—Tie—Vivid, (ahead of all others,) 4:34:30; Flyaway, 5:20:45; Viking, 5:11:30; Apollo, 5:12:55; Jennie, 5:22:15; Coquette, 5:22:35.

Second-class sloops—Orion, 5:23:3; Qui Vive, 5:37:25; Daghee, 5:38:20.

Third-class sloops—White Cap, 5:31:49; Anna, 5:32:45; Storm King, 5:4:10; Nimbus, 6:4:44; Jennie, 6:16:25.

First-class sloops, (the best contested of the whole race,)—Gracie, 5:42:26; Addie V., 5:52:23.

Schooners—Tidal Wave, 7:2:15; Madeline, 7:8:11.

It is as yet impossible to say to which boat the prize will be awarded, as the measurements of the various craft have not been made public. The Committee of the Club having this matter in charge will make a decision as soon as the proper allowances for measurement are ascertained from the official measurer, Mr. HENRY A. GOUGE.

So far as appears the winners are: The schooner Tidal Wave, first-class sloop the Gracie, second-class sloop the Orion, third-class sloop the White Cap, fourth-class sloop the Vivid. These vessels are owned respectively by WM. VOORHIS, Commodore of the Club; W. H. Johnson and Wm. Krebs, George A. Thayer, L. Livingston and J. M. Sawyer.

The race throughout was a most beautiful and exciting one, and gave great satisfaction to all who had the privilege of witnessing it.

ON BOARD THE SLEEPY HOLLOW.

The yachts were accompanied by about 1,200 guests of the Club, who went on board the steamer Sleepy Hollow from the foot of Monroe-place, Brooklyn, at 10 A. M., Vice-Commodore Wm. Poet, Treasurer H. Herbert Hogins, Chaplain J. H. Dwight, and Messrs. Geo. H. Grannies and Edward Arnold, of the Executive Committee, together with Messrs. Wm. H. Doane, Jas. C. T. Lippitt and Jas. T. Sparkman, of the Regatta Committee, to guests from some of the choicest families of New-York and Brooklyn, embracing many of the leading merchants and bankers of the Metropolis, with their fair wives, daughters and lady friends. The Twenty-third Regiment band accompanied the excursionists, and discoursed throughout the day music of the most enlivening and satisfactory character. No liquor was allowed on board, and nothing whatever occurred to mar the enjoyment of the occasion save, perhaps, the mean way in which the caterers served their patrons. The preparation of the food and the manner of serving it was simply sickening to those who looked on. The Club is not to be blamed for this fact, however, as they were imposed upon in the selection of a caterer.

The Atalanta Boat Club and the Midshipmen—The Proposed Race.

Concerning the proposed boat race between a crew of the Midshipmen at the United States Naval Academy at Annapolis and a crew of the Atalanta Club, of New-York, the Baltimore American says:

Last season Vice-Admiral PORTER wrote an excellent letter upon the noble pastime of rowing, which was extensively published by the Press generally, in which he expressed a desire to test the crack crew of the United States Naval Academy with some good boat club in a three-mile race in shells. The Atalanta Club of New-York, the oldest rowing club in American waters, responded. Some correspondence ensued, but in the interim the Midshipmen were off upon their annual cruise. The subject was opened upon their return in May, but as the boating season (not open in New-York until the latter part of that month) and it would require a month and a half to get a crew in condition to cope, with any hope of success, with the excellent oarsmen of the Naval Academy. Upon the return of the Midshipmen from their cruise a six-oared shell race will doubtless be arranged between the representative crew of the Academy and the Atalanta Boat Club, of New-York.

The Delaware, Lackawanna and Western Railroad Accident—Condition of the Wounded—Burial of One of the Victims.

The sufferers by the dreadful railroad calamity of Tuesday at Paterson, N. J., remain in about the same condition as on Wednesday night. They are at the Sisters' Hospital—those who have no families—and these have been removed to their own homes. HORUNG and BLAKEMNEY are almost momentarily expected to die from their injuries. The remains of CHARLES COUTT, the Italian, were interred yesterday. The funeral of GARIBALDI will take place today. There appears to be considerable leniency of feeling exhibited toward the officers and contractors of the road, although the fatal accidents that have occurred in the con. of its construction are frightful in their number. This disaster occurred, not from the insecurity of the bridge or the track, but from the faulty construction of the cars, which was new, and had brakes that were not strong enough to check the progress of a heavy load. The brakeman, MCLEAN, did not keep his brake evenly upon the wheel, but wound it up suddenly when he saw that the progress of the car was too swift. It is the most disastrous accident that has occurred in the vicinity of Paterson for years.

LOCAL NEWS IN BRIEF.

NEW-YORK.

A most useful circular is issued from the well-known house of VAN SCHAICK & CO., brokers, of No. 12 Broad-street. It shows at a glance the amount of stock outstanding in connection with all the leading companies in the United States, the last dividends paid, and the current prices of the stock. It also gives the fullest particulars concerning United States bonds. It does the same with regard to State securities and railroad bonds, and in addition supplies us with copious details relating to the gross earnings of railroads. It is altogether a circular of the greatest value to men of business, and will doubtless be much prized for reference in the counting-house, the bank, and the broker's office.

A concert for the benefit of the Western Branch Young Men's Christian Association will be given at their rooms, No. 205 Hudson-street, this evening. Eminent talent has been engaged, and an attractive programme will be presented. The good work this Society has accomplished is its neighborhood should insure a large attendance.

Mrs. L. WEIL's Institute for young ladies held a reception at the Harvard Rooms yesterday. Many friends of the pupils were present. The programme was varied and interesting, embracing songs, recitations, dialogues, calisthenics, piano, &c. All seemed highly pleased with the efforts of the young ladies and gentlemen.

The Coroner was notified yesterday to hold an inquest at No. 94 East Fourth-street on the body of JOSEPH FOGARTY, a child eighteen months old, who met his death under very singular circumstances. The child was in a small carriage propelled by a girl. While passing along Fourth-street, between First and Second avenues, the carriage was driven too near the edge of the walk, and was struck by the front wheel of a passing truck and overturned. The child fell out into the road, and the hind wheel of the truck passed over him, causing instant death. PATRICK BRADY, the driver of the truck, was arrested to await the result of an inquest to be held by Coroner KEENAN.

ROBERT SCHRODER, of No. 114 East Twenty-seventh-street, doing business at No. 28 Beaver-street, was arrested yesterday on a warrant issued by Justice DOWLING, charging him with causing an abortion to be made on the person of ADA F. MEYERS, of No. 547 Fourth-avenue. SCHRODER appeared before the Magistrate yesterday forenoon and gave bail in the sum of $5,000 to await an examination to take place on Wednesday next, at 1 o'clock in the afternoon.

A boy about seventeen years of age has been seeking aid from the benevolent to assist him in starting a newspaper stand. He goes by the name of Sinclair. Chandler, Morris and other names, and claims to be stopping at the Newsboys' Lodging-house. He is not an inmate of that institution, and the paper exhibited as coming from the Lodging-house is a fraud. The Superintendent never countenances, but always discourages, begging on the part of the boys.

An attempt was made at about 3 o'clock yesterday morning, by some daring burglars, to enter the tailor-shop No. 14 Duane-street, by forcing the rear window. The noise, however, attracted the attention of Officer BARR, of the Fourth Precinct, whose prompt arrival caused the depredators to fly, leaving behind them a cold-chisel and a large mail-bag, which they had evidently brought for the convenience of their expected plunder.

Yesterday morning a fire occurred on the third floor of No. 25 Walker-street, on the premises of ASHER & RENLICK, dealers in jute clippings. There were twenty girls at work in the room at the time of the accident, but as usual with this inflammable stuff, it was impossible to discover how the fire originated. The loss on stock is estimated at $200, and about the same on building, and the working-girls lost their shawls and sacks, which they had taken off during the hours of labor.

There were no steamers discharging passengers at Castle Garden yesterday, except the France, which was reported on Wednesday. There have been 10,881 immigrants landed at the place since this evening down under a full spread of canvas, and the sailing-masters displaying most excellent tactics. The judges' boat steamed down to the stake-boat in the bay—the terminus of the race—and awarted the arrivals, which took place in the following order:

Third-class sloops—White Cap, 5:31:49; Anna, 5:32:45; Storm King, 6:4:10; Nimbus, 6:4:44; Jennie, 6:16:25.

First-class sloops, (the best contested of the whole race,)—Gracie, 5:42:26; Addie V., 5:52:23.

STANTON at Steinway Hall to a small audience last evening, as "the Princess EDITHA, daughter of King LEOPOLD and the Countess of LANDESFELDT," and delivered a lecture, in which she took ground against "woman's rights." She challenged to moral combat her "brother," King LEOPOLD, and her "cousin," Queen VICTORIA, and closed by stating that "her mother's wrongs had made her virtuous." She was richly dressed in low-necked costume, and carried a man's hat in her hand. She gave notice that henceforth she would appear in the streets in a suit of man's clothes.

NEW-JERSEY.

The Bremen Steam-ship Dock, in Hoboken, again suffered at the hands of river thieves on Wednesday night. It was discovered yesterday that a number of boxes of valuable goods had been stolen. It is said that their value was over $4,000. The officers of the Company are reluctant to reveal what they know of the case, and the name of a man who has been arrested upon suspicion cannot be obtained from the Police, because it is hoped that his accomplices may be also captured.

The New-Jersey Episcopal Convention has adjourned, after a two days' session, in which some business of great importance had been transacted—the adoption of the canons establishing minority representation being the most prominent. The following Standing Committee for the ensuing year was appointed: Clergy, Rev. M. Stansbury, Rev. S. A. Clark, Rev. Wm. Williams; Laymen, Messrs. Daniel Dodd, Garthwaite, Mayhew and Darling. The salary of Bishop ODENHEIMER was raised from $6,000 to $6,500.

A terrible accident occurred at about 11 o'clock on Wednesday night in the Newark Zinc Works, by which a workman, ANDREW BAUMGARTNER, was horribly mutilated. He was in the second story of the main building, and accidentally stepped into the hopper used for crushing zinc ore, and had his leg drawn into the crushing-machine. His screams attracted the attention of the other workmen, and the wheels were stopped. When the unfortunate man was drawn out it was found that the limb was entirely crushed, the flesh stripped off and the hip broken. There are no hopes of his recovery.

Some time ago Capt. DONOVAN, of the Hoboken Police, acting on telegraphic instructions from the Mayor of Vicksburg, Miss., arrested HENRY STRUPPLEMANN, who was committed by Recorder POPE, of Hoboken, to await further instructions. After being kept in custody eight days the Mayor of Vicksburg telegraphed that he could not prosecute STRUPPLEMANN, who was accordingly discharged. STRUPPLEMANN now takes an action against the Mayor of Vicksburg and the Chief of Police and Recorder of Hoboken for false imprisonment, and claims $50,000 damages.

The son of CHRISTIAN LEPPLER, who was found on Sunday in an insensible condition upon the side-walk in Bellaville-avenue, Newark, appeared at St. Michael's Hospital, where his father is lying, yesterday, and stated that two men came on Sunday to his father's house, and quarreled with him, beating him cruelly. It is believed that the story is false, and that it was concocted by Mrs. LEPPLER to conceal the fact that she quarreled with her husband. The Police authorities have taken no steps to arrest the woman. LEPPLER is still lying in a precarious condition.

Yesterday two New-York roughs, MIKE COONEY and TOM FITZGERALD, met at a place known as the "Hook de Irish," in Weehawken, for a prize-fight, with half a dozen backers on each side. A severe battle was fought, ending at the eighth round with the defeat of FITZGERALD. He was seriously injured, and it was at one time thought that he would die. Dr. DE GRAFF was called to attend him.
